The Defense Program

WOMAN'S PLACE IN THE DEFENSE PROGRAM

By KATHERINE A. H. SMITH
(In view of the measures being taken in Washington to utilize the services of women in National Defense, the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL presents the following article, by the wife of Lt. Col. Truman Smith, Inf., U.S.A. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL would be pleased to receive and print other expressions from the women of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard.)

DEFENSE is the subject uppermost in every mind today. Each morning the newspapers reiterate the need for defense and for a unified effort. But it is difficult for anyone not directly connected with the rearmament program to feel this need sharply and personally. The number of people thus directly connected is but a small percentage of our population. By far the largest portion is absolutely unaffected, and of this untouched part, women form the majority.

Women have always played an important part in the defense of their country. History gives us many examples. The stories of the heroism and endurance of the pioneer women are all too familiar, too much a part of our heritage to need mention. So too, the part of the women of the Confederacy, without whose courage and resourcefulness in keeping the plantations going, in producing for the army an essential supply of food and clothing, the South could never have fought so long. In 1918 women enrolled in the Red Cross, the YMCA, and many other organizations in great numbers. Every woman wanted to help. They left their homes in all parts of the country and flocked to the cities of the East to be near the center of war activity. While this spirit was admirable, the resulting dislocation of population and the abandonment of local interests would have proved harmful to the country had the war continued longer.

Women are as eager to aid today as were their mothers and grandmothers before them. In the past war, women served as nurses, as telephone operators, in munition factories and on farms. In any future war they will fill these positions again. But these jobs are for women properly trained and able to give their full time to the work. When an army of several million men is raised, women slip into the jobs left vacant by the men. This is an unfortunate result of war which leads to after war rivalry for these positions and much bitterness. Perhaps this is an unavoidable evil of war. But aside from this, there is a large group of women still unused, the normal homemakers of the country, who can give part time to war work. For this group, a great untapped power potential, there is a special field which they and they alone can fill.

From the lessons of this war we learn that there are two fronts, the battle front and the home front. We see that now, perhaps more than ever, the battle front is dependent on the spirit and efficiency of the home front. It is here in the field of home morale that the group just mentioned can make their contribution. With men taken from their families to serve with the armed forces, the local welfare problems are multiplied a thousandfold.

Army to Train Enlisted Men for Commissions

Plans have been completed for the establishment this Summer of four schools for the instruction of enlisted men who are candidates for commissions in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Enlisted men of all categories—Regulars, National Guard, Selective Service, and National Army—will be eligible to make application for the courses, provided they have been in the service at least six months, have at least three months more to serve, and that they are less than 36 years of age.

Basic courses will be given as follows:

At the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga., for 200 students.

At the Field Artillery School, Ft. Sill, Okla., for 125 students.

At the Coast Artillery School, Ft. Monroe, Va., for 125 students.

At the Cavalry School, Ft. Riley, Kans., for 50 students.

The first classes will begin on 1 July 1941. New classes will be taken in each three months thereafter. The enrollment of subsequent classes may be increased as the needs of the expansion program require.

Upon successful completion of the basic three months course, candidates will be commissioned in the Officers Reserve Corps. Should the needs of the service and the candidates' prior experience indicate, they may be commissioned in arms or services other than Infantry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery, or Cavalry. After commissioning they probably will be sent to the school of their branch for an intensive course in the duties of their arm.

In making applications for the course, prospective candidates must indicate their willingness, if they are commissioned, to serve one year on active duty in their capacity of a second lieutenant of reserves.

So far as present plans contemplate, these Candidates Schools will be the only additional sources of commissioned personnel beyond those now available.

Duplicate Ft. Benning

Because of the great stress being placed upon the facilities and capacity of Ft. Benning, Ga., in the expansion program, the War Department is now studying a plan to establish one or more duplicates of Ft. Benning in other parts of the United States.

The Infantry School at Ft. Benning has been expanded to take a great training load. National Guard field officers and general officers have been going there for refresher courses, as well as officers of the reserve corps, and non-commissioned officers. In addition, many other training activities are under way at the post, which has Infantry and Armored Divisions, tank units and other combat outfits. The present strength of the post is approximately 35,000, while by Spring it will reach about 45,000.

The studies now under way would relieve this load by setting up other Infantry Schools away from Ft. Benning.

Chief of Staff to Inspect

General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the Army, is planning another flying trip of inspection to Army training activities in the field.

The date upon which he leaves for his trip will depend entirely on affairs in Washington and when he can feel that conditions are such that he can get away for a few days. When that time arises, he said, he will leave on an hour's notice. Likewise, where he goes will depend upon the time he finds available for his trip. What he would like to do is to cover the entire United States again.

Supply Corps Selections

President Roosevelt this week approved recommendations of a Supply Corps selection board, recommending for promotion to rear admiral in the Supply Corps Captains Frederick G. Pyne and William C. Flite.

The selection board met in the Navy Department 6 Jan. Rear Adm. Arthur F. Huntington (SC) was president; Rear Adms. Trevor W. Leutze (SC) and Ray Spear (SC), members, and Comdr. William J. Carter (SC), recorder.

Captain Pyne, who is now officer in charge of the Finance and Supply School at Philadelphia, Pa., will make his number 1 March, upon the retirement for age of Rear Admiral Huntington. Captain Flite, now officer in charge of the Navy Purchasing Office, San Francisco, Calif., will be promoted 1 Nov. when Rear Admiral Leutze retires for age.

CinC, Atlantic, Becomes Admiral

Rear Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, will be accorded rank of full admiral on 1 Feb., Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced this week by direction of the President.

The admiralty for Admiral King becomes available by reason of the following addition fleet orders, also to be effective 1 Feb.:

Admiral Charles P. Snyder, commander of the Battle Force, goes to the Navy Department General Board with rank of rear admiral.

Vice Adm. William S. Pye, commander of Battleships, Battle Force, becomes commander of the Battle Force retaining his present rank of vice admiral.

Organization of the Navy on a three-fleet basis, effective 1 Feb., resulted in a general redistribution of three admiralties and three vice admiralties held by various commanders of the floating forces.

Admiral James O. Richardson, commander in chief of the U. S. Fleet, was ordered to the Navy Department for reassignment. He was relieved by Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, who becomes commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, with rank of admiral, with additional duty as commander in chief of the U. S. Fleet.

The second admiralty was retained by Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the Asiatic Fleet.

The third admiralty goes from the Battle Force to the Atlantic Fleet.

Staff Corps Reports May Face Opposition

Enactment of legislation embodying the recommendations of the Compton-Reeves Board on staff corps personnel problems and on the creation of three more staff corps for the Navy will undoubtedly face some opposition from the Navy itself, it appeared this week.

At the same time one report at least received the endorsement of Secretary of the Navy Knox this week. Mr. Knox stated that he thought the report on staff corps personnel problems was "a most excellent report." He said that he had not looked at the report on a technical staff corps. At the same time he expressed his willingness to testify on the proposals if asked to appear before the Naval Affairs Committee.

One objection which may be raised to the reports will not be against the reports themselves but against the advisability of making any changes at this time of emergency. On that point the members of the board which prepared the report—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Lewis Compton and Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, USN-Ret.—will stand firm, maintaining that in time of emergency it is more necessary than at any other time to have personnel on a sound basis. Admiral Reeves has been asked to remain on acting duty to testify on the report and accompanying bills.

No legislation has yet been introduced to accompany either report, though, as ordered by Congress, the requisite bills are in committee hands. The staff corps personnel bill which accompanied the report is being re-written, however, to carry out more fully the recommendations of the report.

Representative Melvin J. Maas, Minn., ranking minority member of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, said this week that he agrees in principle with the recommendations contained in the reports of the Compton-Reeves Board relative to status and promotion of line and staff officers of the Navy.

Reviewing the steps that led to the Compton-Reeves Board's study, Representative Maas said: "These reports would indicate that it is not necessary for the Bureau of Ships to have one single group such as was rushed through Congress. I was opposed to that at the time, but let it go through with an amendment that this study should be made. The reports justify my opposition to the consolidation of the personnel."

As to the text of the reports, Representative Maas said he has not had time to study them thoroughly but added: "I am very much impressed with, and in favor of, the principles involved in these two reports. The thing I have been fighting against is having staff and technical officers in the line. I have been trying to get the AEDO's and the EDO's out of the line. I am very pleased that the Reeves-Compton Board has agreed with that policy."

The Minnesota Representative also intimated that he proposes to introduce an amendment to the present personnel act to provide for the promotion of fitted officers as fitted officers, and eliminating (Please turn to Page 550)

Airplane Production Seen As Paramount Defense Problem

Problems of airplane production and pilot training, brought sharply into the public eye by testimony of Rear Admiral Towers in the House, furnish considerable material for editorial comment in leading American newspapers.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says speeding up airplane production "is a task that challenges American industry, large and small. If some sub-contractors aren't fulfilling their obligations, as Admiral Towers suggests, let us widen the whole system of sub-letting contracts so that the hundreds of smaller tool and machine shops throughout the country can play their part. . . ." The Lincoln (Neb.) Journal, sees the production problem as serious, but believes standardization will present a solution. "Reports concerning defense production seem to show that the manufacturers of America, when informed what is required of them, will be able to fill the order. Promotion of the national defense scheme appears to hinge largely on knowing what we want . . . there seems to be some delay in deciding on specifications of the standard plane that should be the result of mass production."

"The key to our own defense problems is the long-range—not the short range—bomber," declares the New York Mirror, which then charges that "through the craven political secrecy surrounding our defense program, reports seep out which indicate that the whole strategy of production is bogged down on the one item where we should be moving fastest: Bombers." For a solution, the Mirror says: "Aviation will continue to be a stepchild until an air-minded fanatic is made Secretary of Aviation and then told: 'The sky's the limit—start punching!'" The Boston Globe also calls for action along this line by editorially urging the War Department to fill the office of special assistant Secretary of War for aviation. After pointing out the heavy assignment of duties on the Chief of Air Corps, the Globe says: "Surely it would appear wiser to divide it between the Chief of the Air Corps, who would be responsible for the control and training of the men, and a civilian executive who would tackle the enormous job of seeing that this corps is provided with a steady flow of the latest equipment."

The Reuther plan for aircraft production is still being debated in the press to a considerable extent. A late comment from the Wilmington (Del.) Journal, says "it is not surprising that defense experts have found the Reuther plan for the mass production of airplanes in auto plants impracticable, but it is disappointing just the same." The plan offers possibilities, however, says the Journal, and "as types of planes suitable for the mass production methods employed in the auto industry are developed, the Reuther plan or some variation may be used to obtain an immense step-up in our productive capacity." The unfeasibility of the Reuther plan is referred to in the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Record, which attributes the main difficulty to lack of machine tools. "This country is finding out," it comments, "that its defense program is not something that can be accomplished by magic or by oratorical guesswork. Six months ago Washington was speaking glibly of the production of 50,000 airplanes a year. The War Department has just announced that about 700 planes are being produced a month, and the major portion is going to Britain."

But from California comes the view of the San Francisco Chronicle that the CIO proposal for joint labor-management conferences to settle labor disputes may be the solution to one of main causes of production delays. "Just what machinery is employed to end strife and delay, to get rid of bottlenecks, inanimate and those arising from human nature, and to find the defects due to lack of facilities and provide the means to adequate and smooth production, is not the stumbling block. The principle is what is important and the manner of doing, as well as the detail to be done, must be adjusted to an even balance." As to the Reuther plan, the Chronicle says "it is disappointing to find that so promising a plan will not work, but the incident enlightens opinion on the necessities of the defense production schedule."

Admiralty For Atlantic Fleet

Battle Force, goes with that officer as commander of the Battle Force, now a position held by a full admiral. The new commander of Battleships, Battle Force, is Rear Adm. Walter S. Anderson, who will continue in rank of rear admiral.

Vice Adm. Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Scouting Force, becomes commandant of the Third Naval District. His successor, Rear Adm. Wilson Brown, attains to the vice admiralty.

The third vice admiralty remains with Vice Adm. William F. Halsey, jr., commander of Aircraft, Battle Force.

When reorganization of the floating forces was announced in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL on 11 Jan., it was pointed out that Admiral King would either get the vice admiralty taken from Battleships, Battle Force, or would get a full admiralty if the vice admiralty was given to the Battle Force commander in lieu of the admiralty held by that commander.

Secretary Knox last week stated that the first course would be followed. His announcement this week, by direction of the President, reveals adoption of the second plan instead.

No definite assignment has yet been announced for Admiral Richardson. Secretary Knox this week declared that he would announce Admiral Richardson's assignment after the former CINCUS reports to Washington for a conference with the Secretary.

Coincidental with the future assignments described above, Mr. Knox announced the following changes in duty, to be effective at once:

Rear Adm. Arthur L. Bristol, from commander Aircraft, Scouting Force, to duty Office of Naval Operations, Navy Department.

Capt. John S. McCain, from commanding officer, Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif., to commander Aircraft, Scouting Force, with additional duty as commander Patrol Wings, U. S. Fleet. Captain McCain is shortly due for promotion to rear admiral.

Capt. Ernest L. Gunther, from commanding officer, USS Yorktown to commanding officer, Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

Capt. Elliott Buckmaster, from commanding officer, Naval Air Station, Pearl Harbor, T. H. to commanding officer, USS Yorktown.

Service Pistol Shots

Sixteen of the hundred top-ranking pistol shots of the United States are Service personnel, the 1940 edition of rankings published this month by the National Rifle Association reveals.

Seven members of the 1940 Infantry Pistol Team Squad obtained places on the list of top-notch pistol shooters. Coast Guardsmen and Marines also won top honors.

Top man for the third consecutive year was a police officer, A. W. Hemming, of Detroit, Mich., with a ranking figure of .8786. The positions garnered by Service personnel on the list of 100 best pistol shooters follow:

6. Sgt. T. E. Barrier, USMC8415
8. Sgt. H. L. Benner, Inf., (69th Armd. Regt. (M))8326
10. GM 1c M. O. Wilson, USCG8135
12. CBM Paul Goulden, USCG8081
14. Lt. C. F. Densford, AC, USA8004
21. Cpl. W. E. Fletcher, USMC7106
26. 1st Sgt. H. O. Hildeten, Inf., (67th Armd. Regt. (M))6621
31. Sgt. J. R. Tucker, USMC6496
36. Lt. N. J. Rodeheffer, USMC6277
38. Cpl. C. A. Clark, 11th Inf.622
49. Lt. M. G. Garr, Inf., USA5734
50. Sgt. Vito Perna, USMC5732
55. Capt. J. C. Drain, jr., Inf., USA5553
60. S. Sgt. A. O. Topper, Inf., (67th Armd. Regt. (M))5316
61. Capt. C. F. Leonard, jr., Inf.5283
95. Capt. C. G. Rau, Inf., USA3329

Captain Rau, now assigned to the 66th Armored Regiment (Light), Ft. Benning, Ga., was captain and coach of the Infantry Team that won the national pistol team championship at Camp Perry, O., last September.

Organize New Band

As part of a general experiment to develop versatile Military bands for the large training centers to be established on the Pacific Coast, Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony and of the All-American Youth Orchestras, will supervise special training being given to an 85-piece experimental band at Ft. MacArthur, Calif.

Nucleus of the organization will be the 3rd Coast Artillery Band of 28 members and in addition 12 regular Army bandmen to be provided for the Infantry, Field Artillery, and Coast Artillery training center bands. The experimental band will be expanded with selectee volunteers to a temporary organization of about 85 pieces, which in turn will form the framework for bands for the three training centers. Stokowski, who is donating his services to the Army, also expects, with the co-operation of the motion picture industry, to produce a film short to be used in training Army bands. He also plans to experiment with sound trucks as a medium for maintaining high morale during hard marches.

Navy Drills and Training

In order to attain physical fitness and military smartness of naval personnel, all Navy shore stations have been ordered by the Navy Department to set up a definite schedule of military drills and physical exercises.

Drills and exercises will entail creation of a military organization at both regular and reserve shore stations, including training stations, air stations, navy yards, schools, and activities of all kinds. Each organization will be headed by a drill and physical education officer designated for that purpose with due consideration to his qualifications for the post. If no suitable officer is available, the Bureau of Navigation will consider favorably recommendations for enrollment in the Naval Reserve of a qualified civilian.

Commanding officers of all shore activities are directed to forward to the bureau as soon as possible the name of the drill and physical education officer and a weekly schedule of drills and exercises. A minimum of one hour of military drill must be given each week, and physical education shall be given for at least 15 minutes each day, five days a week.

The Navy Department also stated that bodies of men moving about training stations and schools shall be in military formation whenever practicable.

Army Industrial College

With Col. John E. Lewis, FA, scheduled to leave his post as commanding officer of the Army Industrial College in Washington about 1 Feb. to go to the Armored Force at Ft. Knox, Ky., it is understood that serious consideration is being given the appointment of Col. Frank Whitehead, USMC, as his successor. If this appointment is made, Colonel Whitehead will be the first Marine Corps officer to ever head the school.

Colonel Whitehead is now on his second tour of duty on the staff of the Industrial College and is a previous graduate of the college. He also completed the industrial school course at Quantico, Va. He was commissioned in the Marine Corps after serving as an enlisted man. If Colonel Whitehead is named to the post it will be necessary for him to be detailed for duty in the Army by the Secretary of War.

Graduates of the Army Industrial College plan to honor Colonel Lewis at a dinner at the Army and Navy Club in Washington on Saturday, 25 Jan.

Name Army Posts

Names of two Army posts were announced by the War Department this week. The military reservation Deer Island, Mass., will be named Ft. Dawes, for William Dawes, a fellow messenger with Paul Revere on his famous ride. Camp Peay, Tenn., has been named Camp Forrest, for Nathan Bedford Forrest, Confederate Cavalry general.

Naval Academy Graduation

Graduation exercises for the February class of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis will take place Friday, 11 Feb., at 11:00 a.m. The exercises will climax a week of activities starting with religious services Sunday. All recitations and drills for underclassmen will be suspended on Friday, 7 Feb., which will be the only interruption to their scheduled activities. The program of events for the entire week follows:

SUNDAY, 2 February
10.45 a. m.—Sermon to Graduates, Chapel.
3.00 p. m.—Concert by Coolidge Quartet, Mahan Hall.
TUESDAY, 4 February
11.45 a. m.—Presentation of Athletic and Extra-curricular Awards, First Class, Dahlgren Hall.
5.00 p. m.—Informal for First Class, Mahan Hall.
9.00-11.30 p. m.—Superintendent's Reception to members of First Class and their families, with dancing in Dahlgren Hall.
WEDNESDAY, 5 February
4.00 p. m.—Basketball, University of Maryland, Dahlgren Hall.
9.00-12.00 p. m.—"N" Dance, for First Class only, Hubbard Hall.
9.00-12.00 p. m.—First Class Hop, Memorial Hall.
THURSDAY, 6 February
2.00 p. m.—Graduating class rehearsal procedure and seating arrangement for graduation exercises, Dahlgren Hall.
5.00 p. m.—Presentation of Prizes and Awards to First Class before the Regiment, Dahlgren Hall.
9.00-12.00 p. m.—Farewell Ball, all classes, Dahlgren Hall.
FRIDAY, 7 February
11.00 a. m.—Graduation Exercises, Dahlgren Hall.

The Journal Salutes

This week the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL salutes:

Brig. Gen. Donald C. Cubbison, USA, who has been ordered to command the First Division, Ft. Devens, Mass.

Rear Adm. Russell Willson, USN, who has been selected to be superintendent, United States Naval Academy.

Brig. Gen. Richard P. Williams, USMC-Ret., who is returning to active duty as President of the Naval Examining Board, Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C.

AA Defense for Navy Ships

The House of Representatives this week passed, with less than one day's debate, H.R. 1053 authorizing an appropriation of $300,000,000 for antiaircraft defenses on naval vessels by unanimous vote.

Representative Carl W. Vinson, Ga., chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, explained the proposed legislation in detail on the floor of the house during the deliberations. He drew applause when he said "the United States Navy, when in materiel and personnel, is unsurpassed by any navy in the world." As of 1 Jan., he said, the Navy had 322 combatant ships, consisting of battleships, 6 aircraft carriers, 18 heavy cruisers, and 19 light cruisers—a total of 58 ships. The work to be done will vary with the different classes of vessels. In general it involves:

"The improvements to be undertaken in the antiaircraft defenses result from the developments in the European war and by experience obtained during the maneuvers and war problems carried out by our fleet.

"(a) Installation of additional antiaircraft guns where practicable on all types of combatant and auxiliary vessels.

"(b) Replacement of present small caliber guns with others of greater antiaircraft effectiveness.

"(c) Installation of light armor around exposed topside battle stations for the protection of personnel.

"(d) Increasing magazine capacity to serve additional guns or replacement guns having a higher volume of fire.

"(e) Improvement of mechanical ammunition handling equipment to insure a greater and more positive supply of ammunition to the guns.

"(f) Installation of blisters on battleships.

"(g) Installation of more modern fire-control equipment.

"As much as possible of the above work will be done at the navy yards during regularly scheduled overhaul periods for the vessels. It is possible, although not planned at present, that if vessels can be spared from the fleet at times other than their regular overhaul period they will be sent to the navy yards for the carrying out of this work.

"According to present plans the major portion of work to effect the improvements in the antiaircraft defenses will be accomplished during the fiscal years 1942 and 1943.

"In May 1940, in accordance with a report submitted by a board headed by Admiral King, it was indicated that steps should be taken to improve the antiaircraft defenses in the major combatant vessels as rapidly as it could be done.

"These improvements will provide our ships with the latest and most up-to-date defenses against aircraft that have been developed and that can be installed on the ships. Of course, new defenses are being considered every day by the Navy and as new schemes are perfected and found to be advantageous.

"Of the sum authorized in this bill, approximately $100,000,000 will be used by the Bureau of Ships for the purpose of installing gun foundations, installing light armor for splinter protection, installing blisters, and for numerous other items related to the proposed changes. The remainder of about $200,000,000 will be used by the Bureau of Ordnance for acquisition of guns and their installation, for the purpose of fire-control instruments and their installation; for the purchase of ammunition for the additional and improved types of guns, and for many related items in connection with the ordnance part of the improved antiaircraft defenses.

"In order that the Navy may place orders at the earliest possible moment for the necessary material to accomplish the work to be undertaken, it is essential that this proposed legislation be enacted into law at the earliest possible date and therefore, I urge the House to give favorable consideration to this bill."

Representative Melvin J. Maas, Minn., ranking minority member of the Naval Affairs Committee, also took the floor to urge enactment of the bill. He said:

"There can be no opposition to this bill. It is simply to recognize the realities of changing methods of warfare. These ships we already have; they are our fleet, and they need an additional type of protection. Either we are going to have a fleet that is effective or we will not have a fleet, because one that is not effective is no better than no fleet at all. I hope there will be no misunderstanding however as to just what type of protection our vessels are going to get by this authorization, and this expenditure of some $300,000,000. It does not mean that battleships cannot be sunk by airplanes even after they get this modernization. It means that the only known way of protecting a naval vessel against aerial bombardment and particularly dive bombers is by making it so hot for the planes that they must stay so far away that their bombing will be inaccurate. A direct hit on a vulnerable part of any ship, including a battleship would disable that ship. It is not necessary to sink a war vessel to put it out of action. What this bill provides is to very greatly augment the aerial protection by increasing the number of antiaircraft guns and to increase their effectiveness and range on our war vessels. It does provide some shielding from splinters. There is no way to completely shield these ships against a direct hit of a large bomb. A 2,000-pound bomb that is carried by a large bombing plane is equal to a 16-inch shell.

In answer to a question, Representative Maas said the modern antiaircraft gun can effectively fire at 25,000 feet. "I mean you can aim and hit your objective at 25,000 feet. But the shells themselves will actually go as high as 30,000 feet. So that when firing in volleys, a plane must stay above 30,000 feet to be certain that it will not be hit."

Military Order of the Carabao

The Secretary of the Navy, Col. Frank Knox, and the Under Secretary of War, Col. Robert P. Patterson, will be the speakers at the Annual "Wallow" of the Military Order of the Carabao, Saturday, 8 Feb. Other high government officials whose activities are closely concerned with the military establishment, that will be present on this occasion, are: the Under Secretary of the Navy, the Assistant Secretary of War, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Majority and Minority Leaders of the House and Senate and many members of the Military and Naval Committees of the House and Senate.

The newly elected Grand Paramount Carabao, Brig. Gen. A. Owen Seaman will preside. The demand for reservations assures one of the largest gatherings of the Order. Members of the Dinner Committee are:

Brig. Gen. Richard H. Jordan, USA, Chairman.

Rear Adm. Ernest J. King, USN, Vice-Chairman.

Maj. Gen. Frederick W. Bosch, USA.

Brig. Gen. Frank B. Watson, USA.

Brig. Gen. Emile P. Moses, USMC.

Capt. George W. Calver, USN.

Capt. Ellis S. Stone, USN.

Col. Charles G. Mortimer, USA.

Col. Charles R. Sanderson, USMC.

Capt. Montgomery E. Higgins, USN.

Capt. Elijah H. Cope, USN.

Col. Joseph M. Heller, MRC, USA.

Lt. Col. Henry Hockwald, USA.

Comdr. William B. Young, USN.

Lt. Col. Joseph R. Darnall, USA.

Lt. Col. George F. Unmacht, USA.

Comdr. John L. McCrea, USN.

Lt. Comdr. Joseph E. Wolowsky, USN.

Lt. Col. A. H. Dondoro, ORC.

Lt. Col. Harry F. Cunningham, ORC.

Maj. David H. Finley, USA.

Maj. Richard M. Cuta, Jr., USMCR.

Maj. William M. Wright, USA.

Maj. Kirke L. Simpson, ORC.

Maj. William T. Davis, MC, USA.

Word has been received from San Francisco that the members of the Order there will hold a combined Wallow and Wallowette there the same night the Washington Order meets. Col. Jennings B. Wilson is Paramount Carabao and Capt. Lewis Mesherry is Lead and Wheel Carabao of the San Francisco Order.

Committee Assignments

Vacancies on both the Military and Naval Affairs Committees of the Senate were filled this week.

New members of the Senate Military Committee are Harry S. Truman, Mo., Mon C. Wallgren, Wash., and Harley M. Kilgore, W. Va., all Democrats, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Mass., Republican.

The new Naval Committee members are James M. Tamm, Del., Democrat, and Alexander Wiley, Wis., and Ralph O. Brewster, Me., both Republicans.

Representatives Carl T. Durham, N. C., and Clifford Davis, Tenn., and Delegate Anthony Dimond, Alaska, were appointed to the House Committee on Military Affairs, and Representatives Ed. V. Izac, Calif., Thomas A. Flaherty, Mass., Lansdale G. Sasser, Md., Lawrence E. Imhoff, O., and James J. Heffernan, N. Y., and Delegate Dimond were named to the committee on Naval Affairs. The resignation of Representative Pat Cannon, Fla., as a member of the Naval Committee has been accepted.

Bases in the Atlantic

The Foreign Policy Association has just issued an interesting report by A. Randle Elliott on the United States Strategic Bases in the Atlantic. According to the report, it is significant that the terms of the agreements with Great Britain left open for subsequent settlement the problems of "the exact location and bounds of the aforesaid bases, the necessary seaward coast and anti-aircraft defenses, the location of sufficient military garrisons, stores and other necessary facilities." It is possible that the term "auxiliary facilities" might be interpreted in case of need to enable American use of the existing British resources in the eight colonies. Applying Mahan's essential criteria, position, resources and strength, the Foreign Policy report states that although the particular sites recently acquired for bases are by no means the best available in the eight British colonies, they will meet the immediate needs of American naval vessels and planes. Authorized developments will soon increase their value, while in any joint threat to American and British interests, United States forces presumably would be granted prompt use of superior resources already existing in nearby British territory.

Newfoundland and Bermuda will be most useful for protecting the vital, thickly populated industrial areas along the eastern seaboard from those islands, planes can patrol the major sea lanes between the United States and Europe, while ships stationed there can largely control access to United States Coasts from the Atlantic. Since both islands are within effective bombing range of large eastern cities, an enemy could seriously menace this country by establishing control over these outposts. Conversely, as the only islands suitable for base near the North Atlantic Coasts, they are of inestimable value to United States defense. In southeastern Newfoundland, the United States was granted rights for the establishment of an air base on the Argentin Peninsula and the south side of Little Placentia Harbor. This harbor is generally ice free for 11 months of the year, when it will be valuable for seaplanes; the adjoining shores will be useful for land planes whenever the weather permits flying. An Army training ground will be established on the southern shore of Little Placentia Harbor, and an Army defensive force will be garrisoned at Barracks to be built near St. John's. A staging field for refueling and servicing Army planes, while en route between the United States and the new base, is projected in western Newfoundland near St. George Bay. British authorities, moreover, may eventually grant the United States Army Air Corps permission to share in the use of Newfoundland Airport, north of Gander Lake in the central part of the island.

This field is one of the largest airports in the world and is well equipped to service the largest bombers. Both St. George Bay and Newfoundland Airport lie in areas where fog is light. In addition to the sites for air bases and an Army post, a United States naval station is to be set up on the south side of St. John's Harbor, to include about 1,250 feet of wharfage for handling supply stores and equipment. The small size and extreme narrowness of St. John's harbor preclude its development as a major naval base, but it will be very useful for naval supply and repairs in northern waters. In the eastern part of Bermuda, the United States has the right to build a major operating base for warships, seaplanes and land planes at Castle Harbor. The circular harbor is over two miles in diameter. A land plane base is to be constructed on Long Bird Island to the north, and storages for explosives are to be set up on the small islands to the southeast of the harbor. With the single exception of Trinidad, which is projected as an operations base, all of the new United States bases in the Caribbean Area will be developed as supply depots or as staging bases for patrol squadrons.

Navy Ships Bill Passed

The House of Representatives by a vote of 382 to 2 passed H. R. 1437 authorizing $900,000,000 for expansion of shipbuilding and ordnance facilities and construction of 400 small vessels for patrol and escort service, after considerable debate Wednesday.

The shipyard and ordnance expansion phases of the bill were explained by Chairman Carl W. Vinson of the House Naval Committee as follows:

"Let me explain this bill. The bill seeks to make available $315,000,000 for the Navy Department to use in expanding facilities in the navy yards and in private yards to carry out the shipbuilding program. When we commenced the shipbuilding program in 1933 the industry had practically dried up in a great many sections of the country and was not in condition to expand. In 1934 the same condition existed. By 1935 there had been a progressive shipbuilding program, and a great many ways had been provided, but during the last session of the Congress, last June, we passed two bills, one granting an 11 per cent increase in tonnage of ships, and another granting a 70 per cent increase in ships—the two-ocean Navy. The shipbuilding industry in the navy yards and in the private yards was not sufficient to absorb such a large expansion. The companies in a great many instances were not able to furnish the capital. Therefore the Navy Department came before the Congress, and we made available $185,000,000 to aid private industry and to aid the navy yards in expanding their shipbuilding facilities. Now, when that estimate was made the Navy Department did not take into consideration the fact that they were going to enter into contracts immediately for approximately $600,000,000 worth of ships, so $185,000,000 was just not enough. They just could not figure out how much they needed to build up this Navy program in the short period of time in which we are hoping to build it up. So, after further survey and investigation, they find it is going to cost an additional $315,000,000, making a total expenditure of $500,000,000 for shipbuilding facilities in the navy yards and in the industrial yards.

"It would not cost that, of course, if the money were expended over a period of 10 or 15 years, but to speed up this program it is absolutely essential that certain things be done all down the line with the objective of getting these ships in the very shortest time possible. The same thing is true in reference to ordnance. There is no need to build the hull of a ship unless it can be equipped with machinery, armor, and guns. The bill provides an additional $104,000,000."

An explanation of the type of small craft to be built was given by Representative James W. Mott, Ore., who said in part:

"These small ships, the building facilities for which are authorized by this bill, small and seemingly unimportant in themselves as they are, constitute an integral part of the Navy. It is just as important to have the proper complement of these ships as it is to have the proper proportion of cruisers and battleships. That is the reason for this bill, and the sole reason for it. As the number of battleships, cruisers, destroyers, and submarines increase, there must be a corresponding increase in ships of this type, and their building must keep pace with the building of the main fleet. The reason the bill is here now, of course, is that we need those ships now, and with all the shipbuilding facilities of the country in use we must create new ones, and in order to create new ones the Government has to temporarily go into the construction of shipbuilding facilities.

"The immediate contemplated program for ships of this class covered in this bill includes thirty-six 165-foot submarine chasers, thirty 110-foot submarine chasers, 24 motor torpedo boats, eighteen 145-foot mine sweepers, 32 fleet mine sweepers, 90 motor mine sweepers, and 50 coastal mine sweepers. In addition to these, the bill authorizes 120 similar craft, the exact types of which have not yet been determined, but which are included in the total authorization of the 400 small vessels provided for in the bill. That these 400 vessels are absolutely necessary to support the fleet at the present time and that they must be completed at the earliest date possible is the unanimous opinion both of the committee and of the Navy Department.

"In addition to these ships the bill authorizes expansion of facilities and the building of new facilities for the production of armament and ordnance for these and other ships of the Navy, which we must be ready to arm completely as soon as they come off the ways."

Assignment of Reserve Officers

The War Department this week advised Commanding Generals that positions that cannot be filled by the assignment of a Reserve officer commissioned in the branch in which the vacancy exists may be filled by the assignment of qualified Reserve officers of other branches.

THE UNITED STATES ARMY

Ponce Air Base

Ponce, Puerto Rico—The 36th Pursuit Group, (Interceptor), at the Ponce Air Base, Ponce, Puerto Rico, which is commanded by Maj. Delmar H. Dunton, AC, is rapidly settling down to a normal routine after the strenuous work entailed in unloading their equipment from the U. S. Army Transport Chateau Thierry, trucking it to camp, and getting oriented in their new surroundings.

The men are enthusiastic over the climate and are looking forward to a pleasant tour of duty in serving at this station.

Radio Man Wins Knox Medal

During ceremonies in his honor at Ft. Monroe, Va., Staff Sgt. Joseph H. Valliere, CAC, received the Knox Medal for outstanding scholastic achievement.

The Knox Medal is awarded annually by the Society of Sons of the American Revolution in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, upon recommendation of The Commandant, The Coast Artillery School, to the enlisted student whose work has been conspicuously good. Besides scholastic standing, military bearing and neatness, cooperation, diligence, conduct, attention to duty, and character were qualities considered in judging competitors for the award.

Sergeant Valliere, when measured by these standards, was the choice of The Commandant as recipient of the highest honor. Among a class of more than a hundred students, Sergeant Valliere stood number one.

Sergeant Valliere pursued the Radio Course, and is now on duty at The Coast Artillery School as a radio instructor.

Hits Price Discrimination

A charge that soldiers in military camps must pay higher prices for articles sold in adjoining towns than civilians was made in the Senate this week by Senator Alexander Wiley, (Rep.) of Wisconsin, who said "if the situation is as it has been stated to me, some sort of remedy should be found. If necessary, an investigation should be made."

Referring to information he had received from men stationed at Camp Beauregard, La., Senator Wiley said: "It appears that the merchants have a sliding price scale for their products—a price scale with one price for the civilians and another one for the soldiers. If this is true, it is a grossly unwarranted and even unpatriotic discrimination against the boys in khaki who are endeavoring to do their bit for the United States, and at very low wages also."

Senator John H. Overton, (Dem.), Louisiana, replied to the Wiley charge on the floor of the Senate on Thursday, 23 Jan., stating that he had communicated with General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, and Maj. Gen. John F. Williams, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, regarding the matter. "General Marshall has had a widespread and thorough investigation made," Senator Overton declared, "and the report is that there is absolutely no foundation for the charges which have been preferred upon the floor of the Senate arranging the community of Alexandria. . . ." He also quoted General Williams as writing, in answer to a telephone request as follows: "I have made inquiry among the officers who accompanied me on my official visit to the Thirty-second Division at Camp Beauregard, La., the latter part of November and none of them had heard any complaints relative to prices charged soldiers, or that there had been any differentiation between soldiers and civilians."

West Point Horse Show

West Point, N. Y.—A gallery of almost 1,000 attended the sixth annual mid-winter West Point horse show in the spacious riding hall here 19 Jan.

Lt. Col. Marion Carson was in charge of arrangements. He is secretary of the West Point Horse Show Association, sponsors of the affair. Proceeds of the show will be used in relief work. The awards:

61st Cav. Div. Horse Show Team Challenge Trophy, donated by Lt. Col. Herbert H. Frost, for members of the 2d Sq., 10th Cav., and USMA Cav. Sq.—Won by Pvt. Hazel L. Raine on Shillelagh; second, Pvt. Sanders Matthews on Milt; third, Pvt. Newell Davenport on Dodd; fourth, Pvt. Harry W. Johnson on Duke.

Children's horsemanship class for children of officers — Won by Patsy Richardson on Sherman; second, Peter Hains on Dodd; third, Robert Black on Red Star; fourth, John Pesco on Kathleen; fifth, Trudie Tully on Zenobia; sixth, Betty Allen on Zedle Bang.

Local jumping—Won by Capt. J. H. O'Malley on Break O'Day; second, Capt. W. F. Ryan on McNair; third, Capt. L. H. Wyman on Yankee; fourth, Capt. D. Parker on Boulder Dam.

Individual military jumping — Won by Capt. K. L. Scherer on Biskramel; second, Capt. E. H. J. Carns on Diamond; third, Cadet W. M. Petre on Pooky Doodle; fourth, Capt. W. H. S. Wright on Prince.

Obstacle race for second classmen—Won by Cadet J. D. Snow; second, Cadet H. Harmeling; third, Cadet W. C. Warren.

Call to Arms for enlisted men of 2nd Sq., 10th Cav., and USMA Cav. Sq.—Won by team of Privts. Robert C. Davis and John Matthews of Hq. and Service Troop; second, Privts. John D. Carson and Leon H. Cook of Troop E; third, Privts. Henry M. Jones and Clifford W. Forney of machine gun troop.

Jumping for first classmen—Won by Cadet P. J. Myers on Coaster; second, Cadet P. Gray on Screwball; third, Cadet J. C. Barney on Boulder Dam; fourth, Cadet P. T. Jones on Chink.

Team jumping—Won by USMA Cav. Sq. (Capt. E. H. J. Carns, K. L. Scherer and P. C. Hains); second, Dept. of Tactics Team No. 1 (Capt. F. R. Maerdian, L. H. Wyman and W. H. S. Wright).

Honor General Hodges

Maj. Gen. Campbell B. Hodges, USA, Commanding V Army Corps, Camp Beauregard, La., is one of six men nominated for President of Louisiana State University. The election by the Board of Supervisors will take place in February. General Hodges stated he was not a candidate and would want the place only if chosen by the uninfluenced action of the board and without manufactured sentiment in his behalf. This nomination recalls the fact that General (then Lt. Colonel) Hodges was elected President of L. S. U. in 1926, before he was eligible for retirement. In times like the present it is an encouraging sign when the virtues of military service are recognized by the nomination of an army officer to head a great state university.

VII Army Corps Hq. Transferred

Headquarters of the VII Army Corps is being transferred from Ft. McClellan, Ala., to Birmingham, Ala. The VII Army Corps consists of the 27th, the 33d, and the 35th National Guard Divisions. Maj. Gen. Frederic H. Smith has been assigned to command this Corps.

Army Mutual Aid Association

The Annual Meeting of the Army Mutual Aid Association will be held in Room 2428, Munitions Building, 20th and Constitution Avenue, Washington, D. C. at 11:00 a. m., 28 Jan. 1941.

Attendance will be limited to members of the Association. All members who can do so are invited to attend.

Attend Edison Inaugural

Ft. Dix, N. J.—Brig. Gen. Ralph K. Robertson, Commanding General of the 44th Division and of Ft. Dix, and Brig. Gen. Edward C. Rose, Commanding General of the 69th Field Artillery Brigade, were among the guests at the inauguration of Governor Charles Edison in Trenton, 21 Jan.

III Army Corps

Presidio of Monterey, Calif.—The War Department has announced the approval of the recommended location of the Headquarters III Army Corps, Maj. Gen. Walter K. Wilson, Commanding. The approved site is on the hill at the west end of the Presidio of Monterey, Calif.

The buildings for the Headquarters and the Headquarters Company will be the wooden cantonment type, with a total cost of approximately $45,000. Bids for this construction will be asked immediately.

Meanwhile the temporary headquarters is in the Presidio Post Headquarters building. The Corps has been functioning since 18 Dec. 1940 with a skeletonized staff and enlisted personnel. The officers present with or ordered to the III Army Corps Staff are Maj. Gen. Walter K. Wilson, Commanding; Maj. Garnett H. Wilson, Aide; Capt. Henry M. Spengler, Aide; Col. William R. Scott, Chief of Staff; Lt. Col. Frank Royce, General Staff; Lt. Col. William D. Powell, General Staff; Lt. Col. Charles B. Hazeltine, General Staff; Lt. Col. Wm. E. Bergin, Adjutant General; Lt. Harlan C. Conrad, Assistant Adjutant General; Col. James A. O'Connor, Engineer; Lt. Col. Jay D. B. Lattin, Signal Officer; Lt. Col. Edward J. Dwan, Inspector General; Lt. Col. Harlan L. Mumma, Quartermaster; Lt. Col. Olaf P. Winningstad, Ordnance Officer; and Col. Wilton C. von Kessler, Surgeon.

Army Day

In extending his endorsement of Army Day, the Fourteenth Annual Celebration of which will be held on 6 April 1941, President Roosevelt called attention to the fact that "at no time since the institution of Army Day will the day's activities be of more profound and deep significance to the citizens of the United States, both to those who remain on civil pursuits and to those who, in rapidly increasing thousands, are donning the olive drab."

In 1937, Congress adopted a Resolution permanently recognizing Army Day; and the President, followed by the Governors of the States, has issued Proclamations in consonance thereto each year.

The President's letter, just received by Col. Charles C. Allen, Commander-in-Chief of the Military Order of the World War, reads:

"Dear Colonel Allen:

"Again there approaches the time for observance of Army Day—an occasion inaugurated by the Military Order of the World War after the close of the conflict which raged in 1914-1918, and sponsored annually by that same society.

"At no time since the institution of Army Day will the day's activities be of more profound and deep significance to the citizens of the United States, both to those who remain on civil pursuits, and to those who in rapidly increasing thousands are donning the olive drab.

"In a world wherein domination by armed might prevails in so many unhappy lands, it is highly desirable that the American people focus their attention for at least one 24-hour period in a year on those military forces which constitute the land defenses of our Republic. The Military Order of the World War is to be highly congratulated on its sponsorship in 1941 of Army Day.

"Very sincerely yours,

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"Army on Wheels"

"Army on Wheels," first official sound motion picture of U. S. Army mechanized forces in defense maneuvers, produced by the truck division, Dodge Brothers Corporation, in cooperation with the War Department, is proving to be one of the most popular non-commercial type films ever produced by the corporation, according to E. J. Poag, assistant general sales manager.

"With thousands of young men joining the military forces in training camps throughout the country, interest in training activities depicted in the film mounts daily among their friends and relatives at home," said Mr. Poag.

"Operations of practically every branch of the Army in the field are shown. Tanks go lunging at high speeds over rough ground. Sturdy trucks transport an entire army, guns, airplanes, troops. Anti-aircraft equipment of all kinds is shown in action.

"Leading patriots and prominent persons in all walks of life have pronounced this an outstanding educational and inspirational film," he said.

Gen. Herron to Retire

Lt. Gen. Charles D. Herron, Commanding General of the Hawaiian Department, will leave Honolulu about 7 Feb. to return to the United States to await retirement. General Herron will reach the statutory retirement age of 64 on 13 March 1941. Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short will relieve General Herron of the Hawaiian command and will be advanced to the rank of lieutenant general.

General Herron is a native of Indiana and was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in the class of 1899, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry. His first service was in the Philippine Islands during the Insurrection from 1899 to 1901. During the World War General Herron sailed for France in May, 1918, with the 313th Field Artillery. Later, while serving as Chief of Staff of the 78th Division, he took part in the occupation of the Limey defensive sector in Lorraine and participated in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services during the Meuse-Argonne offensive and also was awarded the Legion of Honor by the French Government.

General Herron was Chief of Staff of the Philippine Department from 1927 to 1929. For five years, from 1930 to 1935, he was the Executive for Reserve Affairs with headquarters in Washington, D. C. He then commanded the 6th Field Artillery Brigade at Chicago, Ill., until 1937, when he was ordered to Hawaii. He commanded the Hawaiian Division for six months and in March, 1938, assumed command of the Hawaiian Department with headquarters at Fort Shafter, his present post.

General Herron is a graduate of the Field Artillery School, the Army Staff College, and the Army War College, and a distinguished graduate of the Infantry-Cavalry school. He was awarded the degree of Master of Arts at Wabash College in 1905 and in 1937 this institution conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Laws.

More Than Ever DODGE MILES ARE MONEY-SAVING MILES

HERE'S WHY

When you've put this handsome big Luxury Liner through its demonstration paces... when you've feasted your eyes on the beauty and luxury Dodge has built into it, give your pencil a chance...for your pocketbook's sake!

First of all, consider the powerful "Scotch Dynamite" Engine...greatest of a long line of Dodge engines—with the world-famous economy leadership Dodge has built over 26 years!

What a grand feeling to know that it is saving you money every mile you drive! Saving you money on repair bills you don't incur! Saving you money in many other ways that Dodge owners have been experiencing for over a quarter of a century!

And now, for the first time in a low-priced car, Dodge offers you the marvel of Fluid Drive*. Teamed up with Floating Power, Dodge Fluid Drive* gives you the smoothest ride and the easiest handling you've ever experienced.

And remember, Dodge still sells for only a few dollars more than smaller, low-priced cars. Be sure to ask your Dodge dealer for a demonstration and ask him about the easy budget terms.

*FLUID DRIVE OPTIONAL AT SLIGHT EXTRA COST

DODGE IS ONE OF THE "REGULARS"

Dodge cars and trucks saw service with the American Expeditionary Force in France during the World War, and Dodge cars were also used in the 1916 Expedition led by General Pershing into Mexico. Again this year, Dodge has joined the Army. All of the thousands of Dodge Trucks which the U. S. Army has recently purchased are required to meet extraordinary tests in actual service... like the one pictured here.

THE UNITED STATES NAVY and MARINE CORPS

Naval Academy Activities

The Navy Athletic Association sword for personal excellence in athletics will be awarded to Midshipman Theodore Taylor Walker of Ft. Mitchell, Ky., Captain of the Cross Country team. The Thompson Trophy Cup, for the promotion of athletics will go to Midshipman Harold Arthur Harwood, of Los Angeles, Calif., football center. Midshipman Walker, who is a member of the class graduating on 7 Feb., will receive the sword at a ceremony in Dahlgren Hall the day before graduation exercises. Midshipman Harwood, a member of the class of 1942, will receive the cup at a similar ceremony in June.

The Naval Academy and Annapolis enjoyed a rare treat over the past week-end when two beautiful programs of chamber music were given in Mahan Hall by the famous Barrere-Britt Ensemble—being the second attraction of this season arranged by the Naval Academy Entertainment Committee. The first Concertino by the Barrere-Britt Ensemble was given on Saturday night and the second was given Sunday afternoon primarily for midshipmen.

Two Sailors Destroy Swastika

Two American sailors, Harold J. L. Sturtevant, Jr., F 2c, and Ervin G. Lackey, Sea 2c, were arrested 18 Jan. by San Francisco police after they had torn the Nazi flag from a flagpole on the ninth floor of the German consulate in that city. The men have been charged with malicious mischief by the civil authorities.

Secretary of the Navy Knox stated this week that action against the men by Naval authorities would await an inquiry by officials of the 12th Naval District. Both men were on liberty from the Mare Island Naval Hospital, where they were under observation in the psychopathic ward.

The escapade occurred on 18 Jan., and as a Navy spokesman put it: "The preliminary report indicates that these two men, while incited by a turbulent crowd of about one thousand persons, ripped pieces from the German ensign which was flying from the German consulate at about noon on Saturday. Both these men were in civilian clothes."

Navy Specialist Corps

Representative Patrick J. Boland, Pa., has introduced a bill, H. R. 2227, to establish a Specialist Corps in the Navy composed of boatswains, gunners, electricians, radio electricians, machinists, carpenters, pharmacists, and pay clerks designated as warrant officers, and ensigns, lieutenants (jg), lieutenants and lieutenant-commanders designated as commissioned officers promoted from warrant officers.

Hearings on Naval Bills

The Committee on Naval Affairs of the House of Representatives held several hearings this week to clear up legislation introduced since the convening of the present Session of Congress.

Rear Adm. Ross T. McIntire, Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgeons, was called before the committee Thursday to testify concerning H. R. 2108, which would authorize construction of a number of naval hospitals. Under questioning, Admiral McIntire said the principal purpose of the new legislation is to change a number of naval dispensaries into hospitals so that hospital funds can be used. He said the Navy plans, in addition to public building funds, to spend $60,000 on the new 300-bed hospital under construction at Jacksonville, Fla.; $69,000 on a 400-bed hospital at Corpus Christi, Tex.; $20,000 on the naval hospital at the submarine base at Coco Solo, C. Z.; $10,000 at Guantanamo, Cuba; $25,000 at Quantico, Va., and ultimately about $15,000 at San Juan, P. R. Admiral McIntire said the Navy contemplates providing four beds for each 100 personnel, but is not providing at this time for family services at naval stations. The bill was referred back to the Judge Advocate General for redrafting to define the exact purpose of the expenditures, give the number of nurses, and specify definitely other items planned.

The committee adopted a favorable report on H. R. 2106 authorizing naval agents to serve warrants and subpoenas and assist civil officers in making arrests in sabotage and espionage cases, after hearing testimony by Capt. Jules James, acting director of the Bureau of Naval Intelligence, and Capt. Elliott B. Nixon, head of the domestic branch, Naval Intelligence. The officers stated that the Navy now has 185 agents and plans to increase that number to about 800, including members of the Naval Intelligence Reserve called to active duty and some civilians.

Capt. Rufus E. Rose, of the Bureau of supplies, and Capt. Leon S. Fiske, bureau of operations, appeared at the hearing on H. R. 2107, authorizing sale of equipment and services to the Philippine government. The purpose of the bill, the witnesses said, is to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to sell new as well as obsolete equipment and materiel, and to furnish work and services. The services would be of a technical nature, such as repairs to torpedo boats and other ships and equipment that can not ordinarily be secured from private sources. When objection was raised to the broad terms of the bill, it was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Representatives Melvin J. Maas and Warren G. Magnusson to be redrafted into more specific language.

Favorable reports were given on H. R. 2110, authorizing the conveyance of certain land to the State of Florida and Puerto Rico, and H. R. 2112.

Representatives Patrick H. Drewry and W. Sterling Cole were named to confer with Rear Adm. John H. Towers relative to inspection of air bases on British possessions in the Caribbean. Chairman Carl W. Vinson said hearings would be resumed next week regarding naval aviation.

Navy Mutual Aid Association

The sixty-second annual meeting of the Navy Mutual Aid Association was held Tuesday, 21 Jan. 1941, at 11:00 o'clock, room 1509, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. The following officers and directors were elected for the year 1941:

Officers—Admiral H. R. Stark, USN, President; Rear Adm. A. H. Van Keuren, USN, First Vice-President; Capt. D. W. Knox, USN-Ret., Second Vice-President; Capt. F. T. Watrous (SC), USN, Third Vice-President; and Capt. J. R. Hornberger (SC), USN-Ret., Secretary and Treasurer.

Resident Directors—Vice Adm. C. S. Williams, USN-Ret., Rear Adm. H. H. Hough, USN-Ret., Rear Adm. A. W. Dunbar (MC), USN-Ret., Brig. Gen. Seth Williams, USMC, Capt. E. T. Pollock, USN-Ret., Capt. Frank Baldwin (SC), USN-Ret., Capt. E. D. Almy, USN, Capt. J. B. Ewald (SC), USN, Capt. H. H. Good, USN, Comdr. Ellis Reed-Hill, USCG, Comdr. M. L. Ring (SC), USN, Comdr. F. P. Sherman, USN, Comdr. Charles Wellborn, Jr., USN, Lt. Comdr. G. L. Russell, USN, and Lt. Comdr. H. H. Taylor, USN.

The Secretary and Treasurer, Capt. J. R. Hornberger, (SC) USN-Ret., stated that gratifying progress had been made under the level premium plan which became effective 1 Jan. 1939.

There was a net gain in membership over the two year period of 675. The net gain in membership for the year 1940, was 373.

The Annual Report, which will be circulated to the membership in the near future, will contain several proposed changes to the By-Laws, some of these changes are intended to further extend the service which this Association renders to its members.

Navy Staff Reports

the requirement that on the second selection they must be classified as "best fitted" before they are promoted.

"I think such a provision should include staff officers as well as the line, and I believe it should apply to all ranks up to captain," he added.

The findings and recommendations of the boards were reported at length in the 18 Jan. issue of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL.

The study of "distribution, promotion and retirement of officers of the staff corps of the Navy"—known as the 10 Oct. report—was ordered by President Roosevelt after he vetoed last year amendments to the Line Selection Act of 1938. As a result of the study the board recommended changes in staff corps personnel laws to bring them into conformity with line legislation as far as practicable, asked for a new basis for determining the number of officers in each staff corps which would not change the authorized numbers but which would make them easier to calculate, urged abolition of the "line fraction," declared that retired officers should not serve on selection boards, and advocated a retirement age of 61 for all staff corps officers below rank of rear admiral.

The study of the status of line officers designated for specialized duty was undertaken in compliance with a provision in the act which abolished the Construction Corps and placed its officers in the line as extra numbers. The proviso asked a study of the practicability of setting up a technical staff corps as an adjunct of the line but separate therefrom.

The resultant report, known as the 11 Jan. report, ruled against a single technical corps, but did urge re-creation of the Construction Corps, as well as of a marine engineer corps and an aeronautical engineer corps. The other specialist groups—ordnance experts, aerologists, radio engineers and code experts—being too small to constitute separate corps would remain in the line as extra numbers. In its report, the board made it clear that it saw no need for existence of some of these smaller specialist groups since the officers therein performed duties which could well be done by civilians. This did not argue displacement of the present skilled officers, the board indicated, but at the same time it held that it was not necessary either to replace these officers as they retired or to augment their numbers.

Increase in Naval Academy

Final examinations will be held 19 Feb. and 16 Apr. next at 600 offices of the United States Civil Service Commission throughout the country for candidates for admission to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. Legislative authority already exists to increase appointments to the Naval Academy from four to five per national legislator, but restrictions on the current appropriation prohibits putting it into effect. A bill to remove this restriction passed the House this week. As a result of this increase it is expected that the Midshipmen will number 2,910 by October next.

The number of vacancies to be filled in the meantime, for many of which designations have already been made, will be 788. When the pending bill becomes a law an additional 535 vacancies will be created—making a total of 1,323 vacancies that will be filled between now and next October.

Congress expects soon to receive from the Navy Department a recommendation that beginning with the entering class of 1942 the number of appointments to the Academy shall be increased from five to six per national legislator. This will increase the number of Midshipmen under training in 1942 to approximately 3,500.

New wings to Bancroft Hall are being rushed to completion and will be ready to take care of the additional Midshipmen to be appointed between now and next October. Plans have not yet been perfected for the additional new construction which will be required to provide for the additional Midshipmen in 1942 for whom Congress is prepared to appropriate as soon as the Department so recommends.

Wyoming Not Militarized

The training ship USS Wyoming, formerly a battleship, is not being militarized by restoration of her turrets and other fighting equipment, Secretary of the Navy Knox stated this week.

Mr. Knox returned a simple "No" when asked if the Wyoming was being refitted, as had been rumored.

"We regard war merely as a means of asserting the rights of the people against aggression."—WOODROW WILSON.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Legislative assurance, now, that our land, sea, and air forces will be maintained at such strengths as may be determined by the War Department General Staff and the General Board of the Navy to be necessary to guard the nation and its interests against any enemy or combination of enemies.
2. Upward revision of pay schedules for commissioned, warrant and enlisted personnel, active and retired; all temporarily promoted officers to receive pay of grade in which serving.
3. A long range study by the General Board of the Navy to the end that an equitable and just system of promotion for the line and staff of the Navy and Marine Corps be enacted into law.
4. Revision of pension laws to assure service widows a living income.
5. Compensation for service personnel who use privately owned automobiles on government business.

IN THE FRANTIC HASTE TO BUILD an Army and a Navy which will defend the Nation from attack by the Triple Alliance, there should not be lost sight of the development of all the components of the Regular Establishments so that during the turgid unrest following the coming of peace, America and its vital interests will be assured of protection. In his annual Message to Congress, the President forecasted an era of disarmament after the war. One of the four essentials he offered as a program for human freedom, was "freedom from fear—which, translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point, and in such a thorough fashion, that no nation will be in a position to commit any act of physical aggression against a neighbor—anywhere in the world." With this general principle, the Services, of course, are in full agreement. No nation can afford continuously to devote all its energies to the organization of man power, and the production of materiel for total war. Such a policy would mean bankruptcy, and revolution and disorders in its train. It is to be expected, therefore, that during the peace negotiations in which even the victors must participate in order to end hostilities, the question of the reduction of troops, ships and planes will be determined. At that time there will be a pacifist cry for complete disarmament, and a war weary world probably will have forgotten that the struggle through which it has just past, was precipitated because of the superior strength of which Germany and Italy boasted, and the unwillingness of the British and French peoples to match it. There will be forgotten, too, the disarmament negotiations which followed the First World War, negotiations which resulted in the scrapping of powerful vessels of the United States Navy, of useful British and French ships, and even the disregard of Axis creation of formidable air forces and military training of children. France is in process of paying, and Britain is being battered as a result of neglect, and the United States is feverishly laboring to arm so that its power can be applied effectively for its own preservation. We are calling attention to the past because it is the best prophet of the future. That we may then be secure, it is to be fervently hoped the President and Congress will so formulate their programs of armament that when reduction of armaments come, our country will have Regular Establishments and their components thoroughly organized, trained and equipped to continue their historic missions of defense. Any other policy would be folly, and would mean in a turbulent world grave risk to our future security.

DISCUSSIONS ARE REPORTED BETWEEN Prime Minister Churchill and the President's personal envoy to Britain, ex-Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, on the means to standardize American and British arms production. If such standardization be agreed upon, it will be far reaching in that it will apply not only to machinery in factories and shipyards, but to all kinds of munitions from the rifle and bullet, the battleship and mosquito motor boat, to the plane to the bomb. It may even mean the transfer of labor from the United States to Britain and vice versa, to superintend and operate production machinery. Since the defeat in Belgium and Northwestern France, where the British lost practically all of their equipment, rifles, machine guns, and Field Artillery—the United States has supplied them with a million Lee-Enfield rifles, and some Garands, thousands of machine guns and hundreds of 75's, and huge quantities of ammunition. The value of this equipment has been somewhat lessened by the difference in calibres between the American and British weapons remaining available, and parts and ammunition have had to be drawn from this country. Interchangeability of munitions and their parts must be arranged so that if our ships and troops engage with the "Tight Little Islanders" in battle against the Axis forces, it will be possible quickly to make up any deficiencies or damage to their materiel from British Arsenals. It follows that it is the part of wisdom that the President through Mr. Hopkins has inaugurated conversations, which, while directed by his representative and the Prime Minister will be translated into agreement by the military experts of the two Governments.

An elderly man and his wife visited the zoo. When they halted before the hippopotamus cage, he remarked admiringly:

"Darn'd curious fish, ain't it, ma?"

"That ain't a fish," the wife announced. "That's a reptile."

The argument was on. It progressed to a point of such violence that the woman began belaboring the husband with her umbrella.

The old man dodged and ran, with the wife in pursuit. The trainer had just opened the door of the lion's cage, and the retreating husband popped in. He crowded in behind the largest lion and peered over its shoulder at his wife, who, on the other side of the bars, shook her umbrella furiously.

"Coward!" she shouted.

R. B. R.—The new Army Directory is now in the hands of the Public Printer, and first copies are now being made available. In a few days they may be obtained on orders from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C.

A. N. D.—You are slated for promotion to master sergeant within the next few days.

C. A. L.—Eligible lists for master and technical sergeants of the Air Corps are now being revised by a board of Army officers.

W. J. L.—If you are discharged from the Regular Army at the expiration of a three-year enlistment period you are not liable for registration nor military service under the Selective Service Act. If you are discharged before expiration of three years' service you must register with your local draft board within five days, and are then subject to military service.

W. G. W.—The Navy names its mine-sweepers after birds. We are informed by the National Selective Service headquarters that a draftee must have a minimum of three opposing teeth on either side of his jaw to be eligible for service. This means a minimum of 12 teeth.

E. M. C.—Graduation from the Coast Artillery School does not exempt an enlisted man from the educational examination for appointment as warrant officer, US Army. There is no date for the next warrant officers' examination and none will be held until action is taken on the pending bill to increase the number of warrant officers and to create the grade of chief warrant officer.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—Since it has been the practice of the Axis Powers to strike following a conference of their leaders, it is the assumption that as a result of that which has just occurred, a new tempo will be given to their diplomatic efforts to further the military operations in prospect. These efforts are expected to be directed not only toward Russia and Spain and the neutral Balkan States, but to Japan, which was brought into the Triple Alliance as a counter-weight against the United States. Since as President Roosevelt has said, policies and events change within twenty-four hours, it is impossible to forecast what new alignments, if any, are impending, but to speak currently it does look as though Russia has no intention of expanding her aid to Germany, Spain continues reluctant to abandon her attitude of non-belligerency, the Balkan States appear to prefer their present status of non-inter-belligerence and preparedness, and the departure of Admiral Nomura to assume the post of Ambassador at Washington, indicates that his Government at least is deferring the decision as to war with our country. Although a conquered Nation, France remains a factor in the war that none of the belligerents can afford to disregard. It is interesting, therefore, that while Marshal Petain and Monsieur Laval have patched up their differences to the satisfaction of Berlin and Rome, the Vichy Government is reiterating that the French Fleet will not be used against Great Britain, and General Weygand, the ace in the Vichy hole, is maintaining his independent command in North Africa.

Necessarily entering into the calculations of all the Powers, including the Neutrals, is the action Congress will take upon the Lend-Lease bill, which the President initiated and is pushing. The House Foreign Affairs Committee has been greatly impressed by the testimony which it has taken, and is an unit on the principle of all aid to Britain. The important difference that exists relates to the Republican charge that the measure would make the President a Dictator in the sense of Hitler and Mussolini. The President has stated that he has no intention to have the Navy convey cargo ships to England, and has scouted the notion that he has any intention to transfer our Navy under the Union Jack. Secretary Knox, who knows the President's love for the Sea Service, told the Committee that it is the apple of his Chief's eye, a fact the entire career of the latter abundantly confirms. The Secretary further repeatedly has said that we would not transfer any more destroyers to England, and the President has made a like assertion. This has been their response to British representations, which have pointed out that the gravest danger to England lies in enemy submarines, and that a large number of light craft must be added to His Majesty's Fleet if shipping losses—4,325,000 tons to December—which are expected to increase with the coming longer days, are not curtailed. The question in foreign Chancelleries, therefore, is whether Congress will pass the Loan-Lease bill without limitations imposed upon the President's power. If there be no limitations upon it, or if, as likely will be the case, it be amended as to the time the act shall be in force and the amount of money that can be used for buying the munitions for England, the world will know that the Government is committed to the President's policy of the defeat of the Axis Powers.

While it is pure assumption, no one doubts that in the latest conference of Hitler and Mussolini they considered the effect of our total aid to England upon their fortunes. They are aware that time will be required to transform the potential military power of the United States into actuality, and it is to be expected they will do their utmost meanwhile to destroy England. This involves invasion, Mediterranean operations, consequently, become secondary, vital as they are. It involves also their use of Japan against us, but the Army controlled Government at Tokyo apparently is not now prepared to take the plunge, which might result in its ruin. In this connection it is of importance that Admiral Nomura is on his way to Washington to present his credentials as the Japanese Ambassador, and it is said that before leaving he obtained an assurance that the Ministry would not commit an act of war against us so long as he was at his diplomatic post. It is further said that Japan has reiterated that she has no designs upon the Dutch East Indies.

If these reports be true, then the Axis can expect nothing from the Far Eastern Empire which would curtail the American Munitions supply to England. Concerning Japan as always is Russia, but there has been renewed the Fisheries Treaty between the two countries, which removes a sore point in their relations, and there have been no recent clashes upon the Manchurian and Mongolian frontiers. Our own Government, which is cultivating Russia, has just lifted the moral embargo imposed upon her some months ago, and it will now be possible for her to obtain licenses for the export of American planes and parts and aviation gasoline, needed by her armed forces. No doubt Hitler and Mussolini are doing their utmost to induce Russia to become a fourth member of the Triple Alliance, and but for the pressure exerted by Washington it is possible this might have occurred. Certainly, as the British House of Commons has been informed, the Churchill Ministry has not been successful in its efforts to get Stalin to abandon Hitler and Mussolini. So long as Russia pursues her policy of non-belligerency, Bulgaria is not apt to permit German troops to pass through her territory. Should they do so Turkey which has mobilized a large Army on its European soil will offer sturdy resistance. As to Spain, the Red Cross, with the permission of Britain, is sending wheat to the distressed people of the Iberian Peninsula, and with the prospect of more food to come the Franco Government will not, it is argued, throw its forces against Gibraltar. It would seem, therefore, that the Axis Powers must rely upon their own strength to conquer England during the coming spring and summer, and England, with the prospect of American assistance, is grimly prepared to offer the most obstinate resistance.

Field Artillery—The Regular Army will get its second 155-mm gun regiment next month when the 35th Field Artillery is organized at Camp Blanding, Fla. Col. Julian F. Barnes, now with the 4th Division, will be relieved from that assignment on 15 Feb. to command the new unit. Colonel Barnes was recently in the training section of the office of the Chief of Field Artillery. A number of other officers have also been issued orders to the new regiment. They include Lt. Col. Russell H. Dixon, Maj. Edward Harendeen, Maj. Lonnie O. Field, Capt. Donald R. Bodine, Capt. William Y. Frenzler, Capt. Paul F. Oswald, Capt. Harry C. Larter, Jr., Capt. Mathew V. Pothier, 1st Lt. Rudolph Laskowsky, 1st Lt. Trevor N. Dupuy and 1st Lt. Ladislau C. Maslowski. A cadre of 125 enlisted men for the regiment will be obtained from the 13th Field Artillery Brigade at Ft. Bragg, which includes the 17th Field Artillery and the 36th Field Artillery—the latter the only 155-mm gun unit in the Regular Army at this time.

Also to be organized soon is a colored field artillery brigade, at Livingston, Ala. This unit, to be called the 26th Field Artillery Brigade, will consist of a regiment of 155-mm guns and two regiments of 155-mm howitzers. No observation battalion will be organized for the brigade immediately.

Col. Francis A. Doniat, chief of the operations section, Office Chief of Field Artillery, will be relieved from duty in Washington on 15 March and assigned to the 1st Armored Division, Ft. Knox, Ky. He will be succeeded by Lt. Col. Fay R. Prickett, now at West Point with the Field Artillery Detachment.

Marine Corps—Recommendations of the small arms testing board on relative merits of four shoulder pieces have been received at Marine Corps Headquarters here, but officials from the Major General Commandant down are maintaining complete silence on the contents of the communication. At the request of Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, Major General Commandant, the recommendations were sent on before the entire report was prepared, not that headquarters might act on the recommendations alone, but in order that it could receive the decision of the board as soon as possible. It is understood that the complete report will leave San Diego for Washington the first of February. Even then the report will not be made public immediately for it was indicated this week that the matter is of such importance that the decision of the Secretary of the Navy himself will be sought.

Four weapons were tested by a board of Marine officers in San Diego. One is the 1903 Springfield, the present Marine weapon. One is the new Garand semiautomatic, which has been standardized by the Army but not as yet adopted by the Marines though they have received funds for purchase of nearly 8,000 of the weapons and have already equipped a battalion and some smaller units with them. The third weapon is the Johnson semiautomatic rifle. The fourth weapon is a semiautomatic developed by the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, which, incidentally, is now producing 65,000 Garands for the Army. Lt. Col. W. W. Ashurst headed the testing board which completed its field tests on 20 Dec.

A personal visit to inspect the progress in training being made by the Marine parachutists at Lakehurst Naval Air Station will be made next month by Maj. Gen. Thomas Holcomb. Two platoons are now under training at Lakehurst. The 1st Platoon has completed its jumping instructions and is now engaged in studies of parachute rigging and materiel problems. The second platoon is completing its training in parachute jumping. It is expected that the 1st Platoon will be assigned to the 1st Division, Fleet Marine Force, at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, while the 2nd Platoon will go to the 2nd Division at San Diego. Additional platoons will be trained and sent to the FMF until each division, if present plans are carried out, will have a battalion of parachutists.

There will be no dearth of volunteers for parachute training. As in the Army, far more volunteers come forward than can be accommodated. Physical standards are high, of course, but to compensate the enlisted men for the added risks of parachuting, each has been given the rating of specialist first class, at least.

Just when the two Marine brigades will cease to be brigades and will become divisions is now a matter to be decided by the respective commanding generals. New recruits and Reserve units are joining both brigades so that today there may be some doubt whether the units are over-strength brigades or under-strength divisions. It has therefore been left up to the commanding generals, Brig. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel, 2nd Brigade, and Brig. Gen. Holland M. Smith, 1st Brigade, to issue orders at the appropriate time which would make the units divisions. Since both commanders have been selected for promotion to major general, no additional transfers of general officers will be entailed by creation of the divisions. Two brigadiers have also been assigned to the brigades in preparation for the change—Brig. Gen. John Marston to the 2nd Brigade, and Brig. Gen. Philip H. Torrey to the 1st Brigade.

Joint Training Exercises—Selected units of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps are enroute to Puerto Rico where they will participate in the annual joint training exercises. Eleven boats of the "mosquito fleet" left Washington on 22 Jan. for Norfolk, Va., where they will be joined by nine other boats of the flotilla and will sail for Florida and then proceed into the Caribbean for the maneuvers. This new arm of the naval defense is commanded by Lt. Comdr. Earl S. Caldwell. Units of the First Division, USA, boarded transports for Puerto Rican waters this week in Brooklyn. The detachment is under the command of Brig. Gen. J. Garesche Ord, USA.

Navy Line Changes—Several changes in important fleet commands soon to become effective were announced today by the Navy Department. Capt. C. H. McMorris will go from the staff of the commander, Scouting Force, to the staff of the commander in chief, Pacific Fleet. Capt. E. S. Stone will be ordered from the Naval Examining Board, Navy Department, to command the USS Brooklyn. Capt. Harold C. Train will go from command of the USS Arizona to become chief of staff of the commander, Battle Force. He will be succeeded aboard the Arizona by Capt. Franklin Van Valkenburgh, now inspector of naval materiel at New York. Comdr. L. D. McCormick, now on the staff of the commander, Battle Force, will go to the staff of the commander in chief, Pacific Fleet.

Armored Force—A policy was laid down by the War Department this week that "Chiefs of arms and services which are represented in the Armored Force and those charged with the maintenance of Regular Army commissioned personnel for the Armored Regiments, will maintain with the units of the Armored Force the same percentage of officers in the various grades, of officers of comparative efficiency, and of graduates of Special and General Service Schools, as are maintained with other troop units of their arm or service stationed within the continental limits of the United States."

"Regular Army officers who desire to serve with the Armored Force," the Department stated, "may indicate such preference on the annual statement of preferences or by a separate communication addressed to the chief of the arm or service. Such preferences will not be referred to the Chief of the Armored Force but will be utilized by the chief of the arm or service concerned in connection with recommendations for assignment of Regular Army officers to the units of the Armored Force. Insofar as practicable, chiefs of arms or services will continue to give preference to recommending assignments to the Armored Force to those officers who have had mechanized, motorized, or armored vehicle experience, and to those officers who have expressed a preference for such assignment."

Maj. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, Commanding General of the Armored Force, who recently returned to Ft. Knox after an absence due to illness has left for Miami, Fla., for a month's rest before resuming active duty. General Chaffee made the trip from Washington accompanied by Mrs. Chaffee and his aide, Capt. Gustavus W. West. He was met by a company of tanks and escorted to his quarters where he was welcomed home by Maj. Gen. C. L. Scott, acting chief of the Armored Force, and members of his staff.

Infantry—One hundred and twenty-seven Regular Army officers now on duty as instructors or serving in other capacities at the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga., will be supplemented in the near future by approximately 77 additional Reserve officers. Sixty-four Reserve officers are serving at present on the staff of the school. Corps Area and Department commanders have been directed to submit by 1 Feb. 1941, information on eligible Reserve officers so that the War Department may determine how many of these officers can be utilized for this duty. These officers should be under 45 years of age and of the rank of lieutenant or captain.

Air Corps—Opening of a school for instruction of Air Corps officers in the new techniques of high-altitude flight with emphasis on the use of oxygen equipment was announced this week by the Air Corps Materiel Division. The school is being conducted by the Wright Field Aero Medical Research Laboratory, under the direction of Capt. Otis O. Benson, jr., chief of the laboratory.

"Existing Information on High Altitude Operations" will be the subject of a lecture by Capt. B. S. Kelsey, Wright Field test pilot and engineer, recently returned from assignment to London as observer of the Battle of Britain. Maj. Turner A. Sims will describe performances of present and projected airplanes at high altitude. Capt. Frank R. Cook will report on physical characteristics of the atmosphere, in relation to high-altitude flight. Capt. Rudolph Fink will discuss and demonstrate oxygen and pressurized equipment. Captain Benson will discuss "Parachute Escape at High Altitude," "Altitude Sickness and Air Sickness," and "Pilot Fatigue." Frank G. Manson, Wright Field equipment engineer, will discuss electrically-heated flying clothing. Assisting Captain Benson in the lectures on the physiological aspects of flight in the upper levels are Dr. J. W. Helm, Dr. John F. Hall, jr., and Dr. Ernest A. Pinson of the Aero Medical Laboratory.

The Signal Section, Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron, Southwest Air District, and the 311th Signal Company (Aviation) will move from their present station at Hamilton Field, Calif., to March Field, Calif. The units have a strength of approximately 200 officers and men.

Quartermaster Corps—Maj. Michael Zwicker is now stationed at the office of the Quartermaster General in Washington as a subsistence inspector. Major Zwicker formerly was purchasing and contracting officer at the Jeffersonville QM Depot. Lt. Col. Francis B. L. Myer, former executive officer of the Quartermaster School in Philadelphia is now with the planning and control division of the office of the QMG in Washington.

Col. Thomas J. Johnson, former chief of the Remount Branch, has been called to duty from retirement and will be sent to Lima, Peru, as an instructor in the Peruvian Army. Colonel Johnson will be the first Army officer to be sent to South America on such a mission, although numerous officers of Latin American armies have received instruction in the United States. He will aid the Peruvian Army in establishing a Remount Service and assist in building up a breed of horses suitable for cavalry use.

Army Chaplains—Chaplain Ira Freeman, Ch.-Res., Pittsburgh, Pa., recently on active duty at Ft. Hancock, N. J. has been transferred to the office of Chief of Chaplains in Washington and detailed to the public relations section. For a number of years he was a chaplain in the Civilian Conservation Corps. Another new chaplain at Washington is Chaplain Harry V. Virden, 124th Cav., Texas National Guard, who has been transferred to the personnel section of the Office of Chief of Chaplains after short active duty with the Texas National Guard at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

In an exchange of letters between General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, and Dr. Paul R. Moody, the Chief of Staff wrote: "Chaplains are encouraged to invite accredited clergymen from nearby communities to assist in religious and welfare activities at Army stations. We are anxious to establish the closest possible contact between civilian and military religious representatives. This is equally true with respect to welfare and morale agencies. These agencies, operating in a perfectly normal way, will be of great help to our chaplains and recreation officers, who will welcome the assistance of their representatives in carrying out our morale program."

Army Nurses—Maj. Julia O. Flikke, superintendent of the Army Nursing Corps, left Washington this week to attend the annual convention of the American Nurses' Society in New York City. She will return about 1 Feb. after visiting various posts and stations in the New York district.

Industrial College—Maj. Walter L. Welble, CAC, will lecture on "The War Department and the General Staff," on 25 Jan. to officers taking Short Course No. 1. He will emphasize the significance of the General Staff at a time when the armed forces are being expanded rapidly.

Medical Corps—Legislation enacted by Congress suspending professional examinations for promotion in the Medical Corps of the Regular Army has been signed by the President and recommendations have been issued that no examinations be given for the next year.

Ordnance—Executive Officers of the thirteen Ordnance Procurement Districts will meet in Washington on 27 Jan. to receive reports on munitions production, inspection and expansion of planning activities. Those who will attend are Maj. James R. Crawford, Boston Ord. Dist., Col. Robert Sears, Hartford Ord. Dist., Col. John K. Clement, N. Y. Ord. Dist., Lt. Col. Roy L. Bowlin, Rochester Ord. Dist., Maj. D. N. Hausman, Philadelphia Ord. Dist., Maj. John P. Harris, Wilmington Ord. Reg., Lt. Col. James L. Gulon, Pittsburgh Ord. Dist., Maj. H. M. Reedall, Cleveland Ord. Dist., Lt. Col. Fred A. McMahon, Cincinnati Ord. Dist., Maj. Richard Z. Crane, Detroit

Ord. Dist., Col. Donald Armstrong, Chicago Ord. Dist., and Maj. Randall J. Hogan, St. Louis Ord. Dist.

In order to provide ample storage facilities for supplies, the War Department has authorized the construction of 22 warehouses at the Rock Island Arsenal at an estimated cost of $2,644,000.

A new type semi-trailer which will reduce from 33 to 10 the number of vehicles required will be used in transporting the Army's 10-ton ponton bridge equipment. The normal equipment of one light-ponton company is three bridges, and the new semi-trailer will make it necessary for each company to have only 30 trailers instead of 99 as now employed.

Additional Rank for Navy—Plans for legislation to give additional temporary rank in the Navy to officers of all grades, similar to that accorded the Army by the Act of 9 Sept. 1940, are still in the formative stage, Secretary of the Navy Knox indicated this week. The Secretary intimated that need for such additional rank would become more pressing as new vessels join the floating forces. He indicated that the bill to create four additional vice admirals for the floating forces, which died with the 76th Congress, would not be revived as such. Its re-introduction would depend upon the nature of a general temporary rank act, if one is passed. If legislation is passed permitting an indefinite number of higher temporary ranks there would be no need for a bill specifically authorizing four more vice admirals alone.

Judge Advocate General's Department—A considerable number of regular and reserve officers of the Judge Advocate General's Department, as well as legal representatives of the Navy, the Coast Guard, and others interested, attended the joint meeting at the Mayflower Hotel in this city on the evening of 15 Jan. of the Military and Naval Law Committees of the American Bar Association and the Federal Bar Association. Maj. Gen. Edward A. Kreger, USA-Ret., formerly the Judge Advocate General, chairman of both committees, presided, and Col. Archibald King, JAGD, served as secretary. Professor Ellery C. Stowell of the American University was the speaker of the evening and delivered an interesting address on the "Law of War," which was marked not only by learning and scholarship but also by the speaker's practical and common sense approach to the subject. Professor Stowell's address was followed by a general discussion in which there participated Brig. Gen. Oliver L. Spaulding, USA-Ret.; Maj. Walter H. E. Jaeger, JAG-Res., USA, Professor of Law at Georgetown University; Professor Charles S. Collier, George Washington University; and Capt. Frederick B. Wiener, JAG-Res., USA.

The committees of the two bar associations hold joint meetings monthly, at which they hear an address on some topic of military or naval law, and at which all officers and other interested are welcome, even though they may not belong to either association. The next meeting is to be held at the Mayflower Hotel on Wednesday evening, 5 Feb. at 8:00 p.m., and will be addressed by Prof. Charles S. Collier of George Washington University on the subject "War Powers under the Constitution."

Naval Reserve Laboratory—Secretary of the Navy Knox this week announced assignment to active duty of all officer and enlisted personnel of Laboratory Research Unit No. 1 of the U. S. Naval Reserve, for the purpose of conducting intensive research on methods of improving the immunizing capacity of influenza virus vaccine. The University of California has offered the use of the laboratory facilities of its medical school at Berkeley, Calif., for this research, and cooperation with the Rockefeller Foundation which supports the Influenza Laboratory at that location, and the California State Department of Health, has been requested.

Comdr. A. P. Krueger, MC-V(8), USNR, the head of the Department of Bacteriology of the Medical School of the University of California, is the Organizer of this Laboratory Research Unit and will be in charge of the project. He will be assisted by Lt. Robert A. Hicks, MC-V(8), USNR, of Tucson, Arizona, and by the following hospital corpsmen of Class V-6, U. S. Naval Reserve: Chief Pharmacist's Mate Orville Joseph Golub, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Sanford Samuel Elberg, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Nathaniel Smith West, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Alcor Shanks Browne, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Lauren Emery Rosenberg, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Isaac Leo Shechmeister, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Thomas P. Sisklock, Pharmacist's Mate, 2nd Class, Eugene Robert Chisholm and Pharmacist's Mate, 2nd Class, George Bate Saviers.

Flying Cadets—Hereafter enlisted men appointed as flying cadets for flight training and who are adjudged by a board as not qualified to continue such training, shall be returned to their original organization in the same grade they held at the time of their appointment as a flying cadet. This new procedure is set forth in changes in AR 615-160 announced this week. The regulations formerly provided that such enlisted men would be returned to their original organization in the grade held by them only if a vacancy existed, while if no such vacancy existed he would be appointed to the highest grade, below his former grade, in which a vacancy existed. Under the new regulation if no vacancy exists he will be appointed anyway and be carried as surplus in grade until absorbed.

The new regulations also provide that a board of officers appointed under paragraph 11, AR 350-110, or under instructions issued by the Chief of the Air Corps, will consider the physical, moral, educational and professional qualifications of the flying cadets. Formerly this task was performed by the faculty board of the Air Corps Advanced Flying School.

Army Nurses—The Army Nursing Corps is endeavoring to secure 1,400 Reserve nurses by the end of January as the next step in its goal of 4,000 nurses by 1 July 1941. At the present time the Nurses' Reserve numbers 790. Graduate nurses are being sought from the Red Cross and from civilian hospitals, provided they do not hold key civilian positions. As members of the Army Nursing Corps Reserve they will receive one year's training, probably at a station in the Corps Area in which they live. Graduate nurses between the ages of 21 and 40, who are unmarried, are eligible for the Reserve Corps. For the Regular Army, the age limit is 21 to 30. It is believed that there are many married and over-age graduate nurses who can fill civilian vacancies and shortages that may result from appointments to the Nurses Reserve, and eliminate any possibility of the Army program handicapping civilian medical activities.

Such a thing as a Male Typewriter?

Sure.

It's that make which even the most critical business girl seems to fall for every time . . . because it's easier to operate, faster, and more durable.

And it's that typewriter so tough and rugged and rust-resisting—such a brute for punishment—that you see more of them in the Services today than ever before.

The name of this masculine machine is . . . Royal.

UNITED SERVICES LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE Secretary of War and Mrs. Stimson, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Knox were among the guests at the Cabinet dinner in honor of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt Thursday night at the Mayflower, a yearly function which takes the place of the series of separate Cabinet dinners of past administrations, when each Cabinet officer and his wife gave a dinner in compliment to the chief executive and his wife.

The War and Navy secretaries also took part in inauguration festivities, attending the luncheon at the White House Monday, and again in the afternoon Secretary and Mrs. Knox were at the tea when some three or four thousand guests were welcomed.

Mrs. Knox was charmingly gowned in black velvet with which she wore a toque of gay posies of various warm shades. Mrs. Knox has a flair for choosing the most delightful of hats.

Secretary and Mrs. Knox were among those who assisted the Undersecretary of the Navy and Mrs. James V. Forrestal at their first at-home of the season, an afternoon reception for ranking officers of the Navy and their wives and some civilians, yesterday.

Mrs. Forrestal inaugurated an idea of her own which was to "stagger" the assistants, as it were, so they might not literally be staggered, for standing two hours to shake innumerable hands is no easy task, and so she asked others to relieve Secretary and Mrs. Knox, and to take turns in receiving, having Mrs. Compton, wife of the Assistant Secretary, (Mr. Compton is ill), Admiral and Mrs. Harold Stark, and Mrs. Kimmel (the Admiral is at sea).

The charmingly appointed table was ablaze with flowers in shades of red, blue and pale green, carrying out the colors of the dining room at Secretary and Mrs. Forrestal's lovely home at 2840 Woodland Drive. Presiding at the table in turns were Mrs. Louis McCarthy Little, wife of Maj. Gen. Little, Commandant at Quantico; Mrs. John H. Towers, wife of Admiral Towers; Mrs. George G. Pettengill, wife of the Commanding officer, at the Navy Yard, Admiral Pettengill; Mrs. Ray Spear, wife of Admiral Spear; Mrs. Chester W. Nimitz, wife of Admiral Nimitz; Mrs. Harry A. Stuart, wife of Admiral Stuart and Mrs. Alan G. Kirk, whose husband has just recently been transferred from duty as Naval Attaché in London to chief of Naval Intelligence in Washington.

Undersecretary and Mrs. Forrestal had guests staying with them over the weekend to enjoy the inaugural festivities. In the company were the playwright, Mr. Philip Barry, and Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Cushing Roosevelt and Mr. C. V. Whitney of New York.

Secretary Knox was an after dinner speaker at the banquet given by the Council of State Governments, Wednesday evening at the Mayflower, and was accompanied by Mrs. Knox, who also motored out to Olney, to attend the Cabinet at-home of Mrs. Harold Ickes, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, Wednesday afternoon, at Headwaters Farm, and again drove the seventeen miles to attend Mrs. Ickes luncheon for Mrs. Roosevelt the following day.

SERVICE SOCIAL NEWS

Not only did General George O. Marshall, Chief of Staff, head the inaugural parade, Monday, but also he with the gracious assistance of Mrs. Marshall, began the inaugural festivities by entertaining at a luncheon Sunday at their quarters at Ft. Myer, the guests being the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Knox, the US Ambassador to Brazil, Mr. Jefferson Caffery, and Mrs. Caffery, the party being a farewell compliment to the latter on the eve of their departure for South America.

Some others in the party were Governor and Mrs. Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina, Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry C. Pratt and Col. and Mrs. Henry Allen.

After the parade Monday afternoon General and Mrs. Marshall entertained at an informal tea at Ft. Myer, a compliment to Governor Talmadge of Georgia. Judge John Roush and his sister, Mrs. McAnerney and Col. and Mrs. James Woodruff of Georgia were also present—old friends whom General and Mrs. Marshall knew when stationed in Georgia.

Some of the crack riders who took part in the Birthday Horse Shows put on Thursday and Friday at Ft. Myer to swell the fund for hospitalization of paralysis victims, were Maj. George G. Elms, Maj. Q. T. Donaldson Jr., Maj. F. Comfort, Lt. Col. C. B. Lyman, Lt. Col. L. Riley, Lt. Col. Ernest, Capt. C. B. McClellan, Capt. David Wagstaff, Capt. Andrew J. Boyle, Capt. P. D. Hawkins, Capt. D. O. Vars, Capt. J. H. Polk, Lt. L. G. Nawn Jr., Lt. F. J. Hughes Jr., Lt. G. C. Benjamin, Lt. P. J. Alfano, Lt. J. C. Bulkley, Lt. L. A. Hurst, and among several women riders were two from the Service ranks, Mrs. Leslie McNair, wife of Maj. Gen. McNair, and Mrs. Charles B. Lyman, wife of Col. Lyman.

Mrs. Luther Sheldon, wife of Captain Sheldon (MC) USN, and her daughter, Mrs. Robert A. Long Ellis, wife of Lt. Ellis, USN, have recently returned from a visit in Norfolk. Captain and Mrs. Sheldon entertained on Sunday at a cocktail party, a complimentary farewell party for Mrs. Sheldon's sister and her husband, Capt. and Mrs. Smith Hempstone who are shortly leaving for a tour of duty at Annapolis. On the Hempstone's departure Capt. and Mrs. Sheldon will leave their charming new home in Cleveland ave., and come in town to be with her father, Mr. Theodore Noyes on New Hampshire ave., where Capt. and Mrs. Hempstone have been living for several years.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. James A. O'Brien will entertain at a tea at the Officers' Club at the War College to introduce to their friends their young daughter, Marcia, this afternoon.

Maj. and Mrs. Parker W. West, USA-Ret., will entertain at a tea tomorrow afternoon in compliment to the Governor of Maine and Mrs. Brewster.

MRS. MURIEL R. PERSHING

wife of Mr. Francis Warren Pershing. They are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, John Warren Pershing, the grandson of General John J. Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States. The baby was born in New York City 21 Jan.

Weddings and Engagements

BRI. Gen. and Mrs. Edmund Louis Gruber, USA, of Ft. Leavenworth, Kas., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Molly Gruber, to Mr. John Orris Stoddard, son of Mrs. Wilford Cameron Stoddard, of Wyncote, Pa., and the late Wilford Cameron Stoddard. Miss Gruber was graduated from Sweet Briar College, Va., in 1937, and since her graduation has been living in New York.

Mr. Stoddard was graduated from Yale in 1933, where he was elected to Psi Upsilon and the Elizabethan Club. He is a member of the Racquet Club in Philadelphia, the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, and the Pine Valley Golf Club. Mr. Stoddard is a director of the Allen Iron and Steel Co.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. Virginia Rodgers Barker, daughter of Mrs. Philip Owen Coffin, and the late Capt. Christopher R. P. Rodgers, USN, became the bride of Capt. Carl Darnell, USA, Friday, 17 Jan., at her home in S Street, Washington, D. C.

The ceremony was performed at one o'clock by Chaplain Ivan Bennett of Ft. Myer where Capt. Darnell has been stationed. He has been a White House aide, but has now been transferred to Ft. Riley, Kas., where he will take his bride.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white silk jersey, the skirt falling in long supple folds, the neck V shaped and the sleeves long. A smart touch was a girdle of leopard, and she carried a bouquet of white flowers.

Her sister, Mrs. John Sweeney was her only attendant and she was gowned also in silk jersey, a long trailing, draped model of pale blue.

The best man was Capt. George John Andrick, USA.

A small reception was held after the ceremony, the bride's mother welcoming the guests, assisted by Mrs. Carl Darnell, sr., mother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Coffin's sister, Madame Brambilla, whose late husband was connected with the Italian diplomatic service, and who makes her home in Italy, is spending the winter in Washington on account of war conditions. She was a member of the wedding party and wore a charming gown of grey crepe with violet accessories.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late George von L. Meyer, one-time Secretary of the Navy and also Ambassador to Rome. When not in Washington the late Mr. and Mrs. Meyer made their home in Boston, and at Hamilton on the North Shore of Massachusetts in the Summer.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry Gibbins announce the engagement of their daughter Margaret to Mr. Noel Bride of Washington.

Miss Gibbins was born in Knoxville, Tenn., and attended school at Mount DeSales, Catonsville, Md., and the Sacred Heart Convent, Menlo Park, Calif.

Mr. Bride is the son of the late William W. Bride, former Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia, and Mrs. Bride, niece of the late Vice President Fairbanks. He attended the University of Virginia and is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He is associated with the General Foods Corporation.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Lt. Col. Fred E. Davis, QMC, USA, and Mrs. Davis, of 3124 Dale Avenue, Columbus, Ohio, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Embree Davis, to 1st Lt. Urban E. Rohr, Inf., USA. Lieutenant Rohr is now stationed at Ft. Custer, Mich., with the 10th Infantry. The wedding will take place 8 March in Columbus.

sandfold. Yet if these problems are neglected the sores developed will infect the whole body. This is the heart of the problem of home morale and it is here that the problem must be met and answered. Answered not by the glamor of the ambulance drivers smart uniform, not by work which takes one from the humdrum daily grind to the more exciting and unfamiliar life of camps and cauteens, but by home charity jobs which bring no spotlight of publicity to the worker, but which nevertheless must be done. One cannot stress enough the importance of keeping local welfare and public health agencies running.

In order that these home jobs may be well co-ordinated and efficiently cared for, there could be an organization of home front women. Membership in such an organization would give each woman the feeling of being part of a national plan. It would make use of the desire to help, to become part of national effort, but in a way which would keep women to the normal pattern of life and in their own districts. Such an organization could start in each State Capital, run down through every rural district, to every city block and apartment house. One woman would be responsible for the welfare of her section, a section small enough so that she could know everyone in it and small enough for the amount of spare-time she could give to the work. Here is the place for the older woman with her knowledge and experience. She would be the connecting link with local welfare agencies. She would have at her disposal a list of women who could give hours of volunteer nursing in case of epidemics (to mention but one much needed service.) She could arrange for and see that the women of her district took courses in first aid, home nursing, firefighting, etc. Such an organization would keep its finger on the pulse of every home and would assist every home to solve problems the home could not meet alone.

If national unity is a goal of defense, then everyone must have a part in defense. Every man, woman, and child, must feel that his or her job, no matter how seemingly small, is a part of a large plan and important to the success of that plan. When everyone has a job to do, then and then only will national defense unity be a fact. By giving the homemaking women of America a part in the national program a great strength will be added to that program.

NORFOLK, VA.

23 Jan. 1941

Capt. and Mrs. William C. Wickham were hosts on Saturday night at a dinner given to the Officers Club, Naval Base, in honor of Comdr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Ray and Comdr. and Mrs. Chester L. Nichols. Commanders and Mrs. Ray are leaving this month for California. Comdr. Nichols is relieving Comdr. Ray as executive officer of the USN Quincey.

Mrs. Charles M. Huntington, wife of Comdr. Huntington entertained Saturday afternoon at an informal cocktail party at her home at Alston Drive. The party was in honor of Mr. Daniel E. Barbey, wife of Captain Barbey, who left Sunday to visit relatives in Portland, Oregon. Mrs. Huntington's guests were the wives of the officers attached to the USN New York.

Chaplain and Mrs. W. W. Edel entertained at a buffet supper and bridge party Tuesday night at their quarters in the Naval Base. Their guests included Chaplain and Mrs. Andrews, Chaplain and Mrs. H. M. Day, Chaplain and Mrs. Lloyd S. Hindman, Chaplain and Mrs. Thrum, Chaplain and Mrs. Areola, Chaplain and Mrs. Harp from the Naval Hospital, Chaplain and Mrs. Cuthrell from the Navy Yard, Chaplain Wallace, Chaplain Gorski and Lt. and Mrs. Powell.

Mrs. Sam La Hache, who recently came to the States from the Philippines where Comdr. La Hache is on duty on the USS Langley, arrived in Norfolk from Washington a few days ago and is being honored with a number of parties. She is the guest of Mrs. T. B. Williams and Mrs. Robert Hickey. Mrs. Williams gave the first party for Mrs. La Hache on Monday at the Commissioned Officers' Mess and Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Warren Berry entertained afterwards with cocktails at their home on Hampton Boulevard. On Tuesday Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Francis Parker had a number of friends in for cocktails and on Wednesday Mrs. Clifford Cooper was hostess at a party given for Mrs. Hache, at her home on Bolling avenue.

OBITUARIES

Maj. Gen. James F. McKinley, USA-Ret., died 17 Jan. at his home in Terrell Hills, San Antonio, Tex.

General McKinley was born in San Francisco, Calif., 22 Feb. 1880. On 24 June 1898, he enlisted as private in Co. I, 8th Ohio Inf., and served until 21 Nov. 1898. On 3 Feb. 1899, he was commissioned 2nd Lt. of Cavalry and assigned to the 6th Cav.

From June 1900 until March 1901, General McKinley served in the Philippine Islands on the staff of Major General S. B. M. Young, where he distinguished himself in the engagements of Cullebung and Alligangan near Badoc River. He took part in the Second Sulu Expedition, participating in the actions of Cotta Lubbock, Silumaan Mountain, Hassan's Market, Cotta Pang Pang, and was with Troop K, 14th Cav., when Panghina Hassan was killed in March 1904. He also served with the Third Sulu Expedition and in the actions of Cotta Usp, Cotta Lumbo, March 1905, Cotta Paruka Utrick, Cotta Lackanmasa Usp at Looe and Cotta Lumbo, May 1905.

Upon returning to the United States in 1906, General McKinley served at various forts and camps until 1922, when he was detailed to the Adjutant General's Department, to which he was transferred permanently on March 14, 1922.

General McKinley was Adjutant of 1st Cav. Div., Ft. Bliss, Texas, was Adjutant General, Headquarters Eighth Corps Area, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, and was Adjutant General, Panama Canal Department, Quarry Heights, C. Z.

He was appointed Assistant The Adjutant General, with rank of Brigadier General, on 17 July 1929, for a term of four years. From 3 Feb. 1933, until he was appointed The Adjutant General, he was Acting The Adjutant General. On 1 June 1933, he accepted appointment as major general, The Adjutant General, to date from 2 Feb. 1933. He served in this capacity until he was retired 31 Oct. 1935.

General McKinley was awarded the Silver Star Citation with one oak leaf Cluster—For gallantry in action against insurgent forces at Cullebung, Luzon, Philippine Islands, 15 April 1900, and for gallantry in action against insurgent forces at Badoc River, Luzon, Philippine Islands, 25 April 1900.

General McKinley is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret McKinley, of San Antonio, Tex.

Rear Adm. William Clarence Braisted, (MC) USN-Ret., former Surgeon-General of USN, died at West Chester, Pa., 17 Jan. 1941, after a three weeks' illness.

Born in Toledo, O., 9 Oct. 1864, Adm. Braisted attended the University of Michigan, graduating with the class of 1883. He entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University for a post graduate course and graduated in 1886. After four years of private practice, Admiral Braisted was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the Navy on 24 Sept. 1890.

He served on the USS Vesuvius, Columbia, Ohio, Detroit, Topeka, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Wyoming, Utah, and at various Naval Hospitals and stations, including Norfolk, Newport, and for two periods was instructor in surgery at the U. S. Naval Medical School in Washington, D. C. For outstanding bravery in the Battle of Puerto Cabello, in Venezuela, he received the Order of Bolivar from the President of Venezuela.

He was decorated by the Emperor of Japan for services rendered during the Russo-Japanese War.

Admiral Braisted was appointed Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in 1906, and during his tour of duty there, he was given charge of reorganizing the bureau and was instrumental in the founding of the Naval Medical Bulletin. During President Theodore Roosevelt's Administration he was attending physician.

Admiral Braisted had a distinguished career in the medical field of the Navy, particularly as chief of medical affairs during the World War. He was appointed Surgeon-General in February, 1941, and Rear Admiral in August, 1916. He was retired in 1920, after 30 years' service, with the rank of Rear Admiral, MC.

His wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Braisted, and his son, Capt. Frank Alfred Braisted, USN, survive him.

Brig. Gen. Harry F. Rethers, USA-Ret., died at San Francisco, Calif., 17 Jan. 1941.

General Rethers was born in San Francisco, Calif., 7 Aug. 1870, and upon graduation from the University of California in 1893, he enlisted in the Regular Army. In 1895 he was assigned to the 9th Infantry, in which organization he continued to serve for 18 years, following his acceptance of a commission as second lieutenant of Infantry, 10 April 1896. He participated with that regiment in the Santiago Campaign in Cuba, the Philippine Insurrection and the Boxer Rebellion in China. He was awarded citations for gallantry in action at the Battle of San Juan Hill and the Battle of Tientsin, China.

During the World War he served as Assistant to the Quartermaster at the West Point Military Academy. After the Armistice, he was entrusted with the project of returning 45,000 American soldier dead who had fallen abroad, and, in recognition of the accomplishment of that work, the government of France presented him with a statuette entitled "Le Courage Militaire."

After six years' service in Europe, General Rethers returned to the United States, and was assigned as Quartermaster of the Ninth Corps Area. He transferred to the Quartermaster Corps July 1920, was appointed Brigadier General, Assistant to The Quartermaster General, 26 April, and was retired April 1930.

As a result of his World War service, General Rethers received the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States Government, the Order of St. Michael and St. George by the British Government, and the award of Officer of the Legion of Honor by the French Government.

His Distinguished Service Medal citation was as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He distinguished himself by his extraordinary ability and exceptional skill in organizing the work of the Quartermaster Corps at Base Section No. 3.

His good judgment, combined with tact, knowledge of methods, and high professional attainments, resulted in a superior standard of efficiency, reflecting the greatest credit upon himself and enabling him to render most valuable services to the Government."

General Rethers is survived by his widow, Mrs. Maude Hathaway Rethers, of 1001 Pine St., San Francisco, Calif.

Brig. Gen. Carl R. Darnall, USA-Ret., died 18 Jan. 1941, at Walter Reed General Hospital, Wash., D. C.

General Darnall was born in Collin County, Tex., on 25 Dec. 1867. He was graduated from Jefferson Medical College with the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1890, and from the Army Medical School in 1897.

General Darnall entered the military service 27 Oct. 1898 as Surgeon and was appointed Captain and Surgeon 26 Oct. 1901, his first station being Ft. Clark, Tex. Later he commanded the Military Hospital at Iloilo, P. I. After serving ten years as secretary of the faculty and instructor at the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., he served as Executive Officer in the Office of the Surgeon General in Washington, D. C. Following service as Department Surgeon in Hawaii, he returned to Washington in 1925.

He was appointed Assistant Surgeon General in 1929 with the rank of brigadier general and was serving in this capacity at the time of his retirement in 1931.

General Darnall was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for organizing and administering the Supply Division of the Medical Dept. during the World War.

He is survived by three sons, Lt. Col. Joseph R. Darnall, MC, Capt. Carl R. Darnall, MC, and William M. Darnall of Chicago, Ill.

Funeral services for General Darnall were held in the Chapel at Walter Reed Hospital, Tuesday, 21 Jan. The pallbearers were: Maj. Gen. M. W. Ireland, USA-Ret., Brig. Gen. S. U. Marietta, USA, Brig. Gen. Albert G. Love, USA, Brig. F. R. Keefer, USA-Ret., Col. Charles C. Hillman, Col. Norman T. Kirk, Col. Joseph F. Siler, USA-Ret., Col. Thomas M. Spaulding, USA-Ret., Maj. Richard D. LaGarde, USA-Ret.

Funeral services for Maj. Ord G. Chrisman, FD, USA, were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, 22 Jan., in the Ft. Myer Chapel. Chaplain Harry D. Southard officiated. Interment was with full military honors in Section 6 of Arlington National Cemetery.

Major Chrisman, who had been serving as finance officer at Jeffersonville, Indiana, since June 1939, died 17 Jan. at the Station Hospital, Fort Knox, Kentucky. He was born in Connersville, Indiana, 8 Sept. 1898. He was commissioned a second lieutenant of Infantry (Continued on Next Page)

The President of the United States has selected the following names for the 115 destroyers which were authorized under the Act of 19 July 1940, and for which contracts have been awarded. Fifty-one of these are names of former vessels in the Navy which have been stricken from the Navy List; fifty-nine are names appearing for the first time on the Navy List; the remaining five are names which are similar to names which have appeared on the Navy List.

Fourteen of the new destroyers were named for enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps; two are assigned names of former Secretaries of the Navy. Three are named for naval aviators, Stephen Potter, Zachary Lansdowne, and Frank
C. McCord, and the name of Commander
John Rodgers has been added to those of Commodore John Rodgers and Rear Admiral John Rodgers in the naming of the Destroyer John Rodgers. Three are named for outstanding naval engineers,
Charles Wilson Dyson, Washington L.
Capps, and David W. Taylor.

The names selected are as follows:

Federal S. B. & D. Co.
Aaron Ward—Rear Adm. Aaron Ward.
Buchanan—Capt. Franklin Buchanan.
Duncan—Lt. Silas Duncan.
Lansdowne—Lt. Comdr. Zachary Lansdowne.
Lardner—Rear Adm. James L. Lardner.
McCalla—Rear Adm. Bowman H. McCalla.
Mervine—Rear Adm. William Mervine.
Quick—Maj. John H. Quick, USMC.
Phillip—Rear Adm. John Woodward Phillip.
Renshaw—Comdr. William B. Renshaw.
Ringgold—Rear Adm. Cadwallader Ringgold.
Schroeder—Rear Adm. Seaton Schroeder.
Sigbee—Rear Adm. Charles Dwight Sigbee.
Stevenson—Pay Inspector John H. Stevenson.
Stockton—Commodore Robert Field Stockton.
Thorn—Lt. Jonathan Thorn.
Turner—Capt. Daniel Turner.
Bath Iron Works Corp.
Conway—William Conway, Quartermaster.
Cony—Joseph S. Cony, Acting Master.
Converse—Rear Adm. George A. Converse.
Eaton—William Eaton, U. S. Navy Agent.
Foote—Rear Adm. Andrew H. Foote.
Spence—Capt. Robert Traill Spence.
Terry—Comdr. Edward Terry.
Thatcher—Rear Adm. Henry Knox Thatcher.
Anthony—Sgt. Major William Anthony, U.
S. M. C.
Wadsworth—Commodore Alexander Scammell Wadsworth.
Walker—Rear Adm. John Grimes Walker.
Bethlehem, Staten Island
Farenholt—Rear Adm. Oscar W. Farenholt.
Bailey—Rear Adm. Theodoros Bailey.
Brownson—Rear Adm. Willard H. Brown-
son.
Daly—Sgt. Maj. Daniel Daly, USMC.
Isherwood—Rear Adm. Benjamin Franklin
Isherwood.
Kimberly—Rear Adm. Lewis Ashfield Kimberly.
Luce—Rear Adm. Stephen B. Luce.
Champlin—Capt. Stephen Champlin.
Meade—Rear Adm. Richard W. Meade and
Brig. Gen. Robert L. Meade, USMC.
Murphy—Acting Lt. John McLeod Murphy.
Parker—Rear Adm. Foxhall Alexander Parker.

Bethlehem, San Francisco
Abner Read—Comdr. Abner Read.
Ammen—Rear Adm. Daniel Ammen.
Beatty—Rear Adm. Frank Edmund Beatty.
Bush—1st Lt. William S. Bush, USMC.
Trathen—James Trathen, Acting Volunteer
Lieutenant Commander.
Hazelwood—Commodore John Hazelwood.
Heerman—Lewis Heerman, Surgeon.
Hoel—William R. Hoel, Acting Volunteer
Lieutenant Commander.
McCord—Comdr. Frank Carey McCord.
Miller—James Miller, Quartermaster.

Owen—Comdr. Elias K. Owen.
Putnam—Master Charles Flint Putnam, USN.

General Brees Honored

Lt. Gen. H. J. Brees, commander of the Third Army, was honored at a banquet in San Antonio Saturday, 18 Jan., when about 250 guests paid tribute to him for being chosen the outstanding citizen of San Antonio, Tex., in 1940 by the San Antonio Exchange Club. In accepting the honor, General Brees warned that the people of the United States do not fully realize the extent of the international emergency which confronts them.

Among the ranking military guests were
Maj. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the 8th Army Corps; Maj. Gen. J. L.
Collins, commander of the Second Division; Brig. Gen. Joseph Atkins, chief of staff of the Second Division; Brig. Gen.
W. H. Simpson, Second Division; Brig.
Gen. J. P. Lucas, Second Division; Brig.
Gen. Gerald C. Brant, commander of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center, and Brig. Gen. Richard Donovan, commander of the Eighth Corps Area.

More Than 1000 Active Naval Radiomen Students

 The most important part of any home study course is the personal guidance, supervision, instruction and consultation given the student by properly qualified instructors. The CREI staff of engineer-instructors is able and experienced. Personal attention is focused upon the individual problems of each student. Constant addition and revision to the CREI lesson material as the art advances and service to the students demands the continuous effort of men with such backgrounds as:

* E. H. RIETZKE
Founder and President of CREI; Original instructor in Charge; Advanced Radio Material School, Bellevue; recognized authority throughout Navy and commercial radio. Member, I.R.E.

* MARK H. BISER
Vice-Pres. and Dean of Faculty; technical education includes Johns Hopkins U.; U. of Wisconsin; Associated with radio since 1914. Member, I.R.E.

* CHARLES J. ALBA
Electrical engineering and audio frequency work; BS and MS degrees from M.I.T.; former television engineer for R.C.A.

* JAMES M. STRONG
Mathematics and applied R. F. theory; BS degree from Notre Dame; graduate work U. of Michigan; former design engineer with General Electric.

* H. J. WOODS

Burroughs

Special Service Model

ADDING-SUBTRACTING MACHINES

Designed for both hand and electric operation, Burroughs Service Model Adding-Subtracting Machines can be used at any time and in any place. Handle and electric cord fit on special racks at back of machine when not in use.

A special keyboard provides extra protection to mechanism against dust, a feature valuable in field work.

Service Models are built in 8 and 10 column capacities, with or without credit balance feature. They are compact, easy to carry, and finished in olive-green. Call your local Burroughs office for complete information, including item numbers and Government prices. Or, write direct to—

BURROUGHS ADDING MACHINE CO., 6081 SECOND AVENUE, DETROIT

Model illustrated is Burroughs Style 9 08 95, eight columns, without credit balance feature. Item No. 54-M-4795 — TPS, Contract 36099.

Special imitation leather carrying case for machine is Item No. 54-M-15900-100 — TPS, Contract 36099.

FINANCE

Financial Digest

The Press has paid comparatively little attention to an important statement which Secretary Morgenthau issued on the eve of the President's Third Inauguration. The Secretary spoke enthusiastically about the soundness of the Nation's defense finances, asserted that the dollar has become the standard currency of the world, referred to the eagerness with which foreigners are buying our securities in the open market, and noted with satisfaction the manner in which our tax structure is producing greatly increased revenue, not as a drain upon the national income, but as a result of growth in production.

There is no doubt, of course, that the dollar is the soundest unit in the world. In proof of the claim made by Secretary Morgenthau, a report made by the Secretary of Commerce shows that foreign holdings of United States stocks, bonds, cash balances and other dollar assets at the end of the first year of the war aggregated $9,563,000,000, compared with $9,064,000,000 at the close of August 1939. Stocks and bonds held by foreigners at the end of August 1940 had an estimated value of $3,189,000,000, reported foreign-owned dollar balances stood at $3,636,000,000, and so called direct "investments" and miscellaneous holdings accounted for $2,738,000,000. The increase of approximately $500,000,000 in the estimated value of foreign-owned assets during the year resulted from a combination of factors. The flight of alien capital to this country influenced the rise of foreign-owned dollar balances and other short term holdings by nearly $700,000,000, despite a net withdrawal of almost $200,000,000 in British-owned cash holdings. "Long term" investments held in this country by foreigners showed a decline during the 12 month period from $6,111,000,000 to $5,927,000,000, a drop in which British net liquidation of American common stocks was the most important single factor. The net sale of domestic securities on foreign accounts during most of the first 12 months of the war was largely a reflection of British and Canadian liquidation.

The report of the Department of Commerce is of current interest because of the report on British assets which Secretary Morgenthau made to Congress. Correcting that report this week, the Secretary advised an additional $57,000,000 to the assets he had transmitted, but noted that $21,000,000 of this sum was committed in connection with foreign exchange contracts. As this is a comparatively minor error, it has not entered into the calculations of experts who have been analyzing the British position as described by the Secretary of the Treasury and by the Federal Reserve Board. It was stated by the Secretary that the British have on hand only $1,775,000,000 of dollar exchange of which $875,000,000 is in gold balances and American securities, and $900,000,000 in "direct and other investments," which will take time to liquidate. During the year, the British will ship goods and gold to us which will amount to $1,555,000,000. The aggregate value of their assets thus is $3,330,000,000. The commitments against this sum are estimated at $3,019,000,000, which will leave a balance of only $311,000,000 to pay for contracts that must be entered into if Britain is to receive the ships and munitions necessary for her continuance of the war.

In a recent bulletin, the Federal Reserve Board stated: "Gold and dollar resources of every sort held by the British Empire amounted to over $7,000,000,000 at the outbreak of the war. In the intervening period the Empire has produced $1,100,000,000 of gold and sold $1,400,000,000 of goods to the United States. Drafts upon the aggregate of these gold and dollar resources have been made to pay for $2,600,000,000 of goods already delivered to the United States and to cover substantial withdrawals of capital from England as well as for other purposes." To compare the total of these amounts with that of Secretary Morgan-thau, the Federal Reserve Board fixes the value of British assets at $7,015,000,000 while Mr. Morgenthau says it is $1,775,000,000. Subtracting British commitments, the British worth is approximately $5,500,000,000 against the Secretary's estimate of $311,000,000.

There is no doubt that the differences between the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board figures will play an important part in the debate on the Lend-Lease bill which will be reported to the House next week by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Navy Retired Officers

Senator David I. Walsh, Mass., chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, this week introduced a bill, S. 376, to provide that lieutenants of the line of the Navy who served in the Navy or Naval Reserve Force prior to 12 Nov. 1918 and who were, between 29 May 1934 and 23 June 1938, while on a promotion list, placed on the retired list for physical disability, shall be advanced on the retired list to the grade for which they were selected for promotion, provided that such advancement shall not operate to increase the retired pay of such officers. Representative Melvin J. Maas, Minn., introduced an identical bill, H. R. 2273, in the House.

Seek CMTC Continuation

An appeal for the continuation of the Citizens Military Training Camps this coming summer was made to General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff, this week by representatives of the Civilian Military Education Fund. Col. Charles B. Robbins, chairman of the Ralph B. Mer-shon Fund committee, and Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, a member of the committee, called upon the Chief of Staff.

The 1942 budget contains no estimates for appropriations for the CMTC and under present plans it is not contemplated that such training be conducted, because of the gigantic self-training program under way in all combat units.

The War Department announced this week that graduates of the 1939 White Course, trainees who were recommended for the Blue Course, and 1939 Blue Course trainees were recommended for further training, who applied for and were rejected for the 1940 camps due to quota restrictions, and CMTC graduates of the 1940 White Course who were recommended for the Blue Course, and the 1940 Blue Course trainees who were recommended for further training, will be allowed to qualify for commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps under the provisions of Army regulations in effect at the time of graduation from the CMTC Camps.

MERCHANT MARINE

Merchant Marine

Congress and the Maritime Commission each took steps this week to get the recently-announced program of construction of 200 single-design steam cargo vessels into full operation.

The full House Appropriations Committee on Wednesday, following testimony on the preceding Saturday by Rear Adm. Emory S. Land, USN-Ret., Maritime Commission chairman, reported favorably an emergency appropriation of $313,500,000 for the mass-production ships.

At the same time, the Maritime Commission awarded four more contracts for construction of ways and shipbuilding facilities in as many cities. The new awards bring to seven the number of shipbuilding centers to be placed in construction, since last week contracts were placed for building of eight ways at Portland, Ore.; eight ways at Los Angeles and six ways at Houston.

The four contracts awarded this week for construction of shipbuilding facilities in Baltimore, New Orleans, Mobile and Wilmington, N. C.

This preliminary work as well as designs for the vessels themselves has been executed with an allocation of $500,000 from the President's "blank check fund" and a contract authorization of $36,500,000. The $313,500,000 asked of Congress will provide the remainder of the estimated $350,000,000 the program will cost.

Testifying before the House committee, Admiral Land estimated that the first of the new ships would be finished 11 months after contracts were awarded; that the entire program would be completed in 24 months.

This country faces a serious shortage of tonnage as a result of war losses and consequent disposal of our old reserve ships. However, these vessels are necessary only because of the war—to provide a reserve and to be used in importation of materials essential for the defense program.

"We are at the bottom of the last page so far as the reserve fleet is concerned," Admiral Land told the committee, pointing out that as of 1 Jan. a total of 1,371 ships had been sunk since start of the war, 633 of them British.

No Awards Yet

No awards have yet been made as the result of bids received 13 Jan. for disposal of 21 vessels of the laid-up fleet to British interests. Such an award probably can be expected within a few days.

It was stated in this column last week that the old coal-burning passenger liner George Washington was not bid upon. However, it was learned this week that the big ship was withdrawn from the group of 24 vessels originally offered for disposal. The George Washington is being refitted at Newport News for use as a transport, probably for the Army. It will be remembered that the Amerika, another of the four old coal-burners once tied up at Solomons Island, was refitted as an Army transport and after transporting a garrison to the leased base at Newfoundland, is serving as a floating barracks pending completion of accommodations ashore. The other two vessels, the Monticello and Mount Vernon, have been scrapped.

A number of other bids still remain to be disposed of by the Maritime Commission—including proposals by two companies to build five gasoline tankers for the Navy; proposals to build a group of C-2 cargo vessels, both steam and diesel; Alcoa Steamship Company's bid of $350,000 for the laid-up vessels Bensalem and Mercer Victory, and Sword Steamship Line's bid for the laid-up ships West Hematite and West Neris and for a new C-1 vessel now building at Wilmington, Del.

"Banana Oil"

The super-super bon mot of the jazz '20s should be recalled in maritime circles today as Pennsylvania Shipyards completed preparations to launch the new C-1 cargo vessel Cape Lookout at Beaumont, Texas. For when Miss Audrey Louise Jones cracks the traditional bottle of fizz-wine on the cutwater of the Cape Lookout today and the new ship begins to slide into the Sabine, she will move—not on the customary launching grease—but on ripe bananas . . . 7,000 pounds of 'em.

Cementing of inter-American solidarity, this use of fruit purchased from our sister nations to the South—and the cost of the new lubricant, though not announced, is probably comparable to that of the greases and tallows customarily employed.

Pension Legislation

Two bills to liberalize pension laws have been introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative John Lesinski, Mich. H. R. 2472 would provide pensions to members of the Regular Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard who become disabled by reason of their service, equivalent to 90 per cent of the compensation payable to war veterans for similar service-connected disabilities. Under the bill pensions would range from $9 for 10 per cent disability to $157.50 per month for total blindness. H. R. 2473 provides that widows and orphans of deceased veterans of the Regular Establishment shall be entitled to the same pensions under the same conditions otherwise as provided for the widows and orphans of World War veterans.

Retired Allowances

H. R. 2269 introduced this week by Representative Ed. V. Izac, Calif., would increase the allowances of retired enlisted men from $9.50 and $6.25 per month to $18 and $12 per month respectively, and H. R. 2228 by Representative Overton Brooks, La., to provide that second lieutenants given temporary promotion to first lieutenants shall receive the pay of first lieutenants.

Inspections by Chiefs of Branches

For purposes of economy the War Department desires that chiefs of arms and services traveling by rail or commercial airplane on inspection trips avoid taking Staff Officers with them, unless considered essential for technical or tactical reasons.

Chiefs of arms or services when making inspections of troop units or installations should be accompanied by a representative of the army, corps, or corps area commander most concerned, the Department states.

Issue Cotton Breeches

There is available a quantity of breeches, cotton, o.d. which The Quartermaster General will issue within the continental limits of the United States until stock is exhausted. This issue will be made on the basis of one pair of breeches per man to be used as a work garment in addition to the authorized allowance of trousers, working, denim. The issue will be made under the prescribed method for other articles of clothing until stock on hand is exhausted.

Services in Inaugural Parade

General George C. Marshall, Chief of Staff of the Army, expressed satisfaction this week over the representative forces which participated.

The General pointed out that, in addition to the elements from the Regular Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, there were units of the National Guard, Selective service troops, and Reserve officers all welded into one integrated, democratic force truly representative of the National Army of the United States. Even in the Regular Army units, General Marshall stated, approximately two-thirds of the officers were Reserve officers.

President Roosevelt appeared on the stand to watch the parade on the arm of his son, Capt. James Roosevelt, of the Marine Corps Reserve. General Marshall rode on horseback at the head of the parade in his capacity as grand marshal. Shortly after he had passed the President's box he dismounted and joined the Executive to watch the remainder of the parade. Admiral Harold R. Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, also took up a place alongside the President.

Following is a list of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard officers who served as aides to the attending governors:

Alabama—Lt. Col. Levi W. Foy, USA, and Lt. Comdr. H. Crommelin, USN.

U. S. COAST GUARD

ALL available surface craft of the Coast Guard were dispatched on 13 Jan. to assist the U. S. Lines Steamer Manhattan as soon as word was received that the ship had run aground about three miles north of Lake Worth, Fla. The Cutters Mojave, Vigilant and Tallapoosa from the Jacksonville District and the Cutter Modoc from the Norfolk District, together with the personnel and equipment from the Lake Worth Inlet Coast Guard Lifeboat station, assisted in the salvage operations. The Manhattan carried a crew of between 450 and 500 and 200 passengers. The motor lifeboat from Lake Worth station removed the passengers, transferring them to the Cutter Vigilant for transportation to West Palm Beach, Fla. The Cutters Mojave and Vigilant and two salvage tugs made unsuccessful attempts to free the Manhattan from the sand bar during daylight hours on 14, 15 and 16, Jan. The Manhattan, drawing 33 feet of water, was aground on a sand bar about 250 yards offshore in about 24 feet of water.

Air Station Dedication

The new Coast Guard Air Station now in operation at San Francisco will be formally dedicated with elaborate exercises on 15 Feb. It was announced at headquarters this week. Details of the celebration are now being completed and will be announced within the coming week.

Operations

While transferring passengers from the grounded Steamer Manhattan on 13 Jan. the Cutter Vigilant rescued three persons swept overboard from a foundered motorboat, near Lake Worth, Fla.

On 13 Jan. while returning from Weather Station Two, the Cutter Bibb intercepted a message from the S. S. West Kebar of the American West African Line that the vessel was in distress about 300 miles from New York. The Cutters Chelan, Thetis, Galatea and Champlain were dispatched by the Boston and New York Districts, together with the Navy Destroyer Mayo and the USS Dallas. Plane No. V-178 from the New York Coast Guard Air Station located the West Kebar which was endeavoring to ride out a full gale and gave her exact position. The West Kebar broke her steering gear on 13 Jan. but was conveyed to Boston by the Cutter Chelan and the Navy Destroyer Mayo, arriving on the morning of 16 Jan.

The Cutter Ewing from Boston proceeded on 14 Jan. to the assistance of the Tug Charles P. Greenough, with hawser in steering wheel, a short distance north of the eastern entrance to the Cape Cod Canal.

On 15 Jan. the Cutter Mendota contacted the disabled SS Otho in a position about 340 miles east of Morehead City, N. C. The Otho was forced to pump overboard her cargo of oil after which she was able to proceed under convoy by the Cutter Mendota to New York where both vessels arrived on 17 Jan.

During the past week airplanes and surface craft of the Jacksonville, Norfolk, Philadelphia and New York Districts have been engaged in notifying small craft, without wireless, of the approach of storms which at time reached full gale force, and the Cutter Arundel has been engaged in breaking ice in the Hudson River.
